Marshall, Bevin Rebuke Molotov for Statement

JAPANESE HAIL STATEMENT BY GEN. M'ARTHUR

Acclaim It as Most Detailed Expression of Position Yet Heard.

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, March 18—Japanese today acclaimed General MacArthur's press conference declaration as the strongest, most detailed expression of Japan's present position the world has heard.

But many of them voiced fear of being cut off from United States financial aid and of losing the stabilizing influence of American military power.

The supreme commander told American correspondents in a luncheon yesterday that a peace treaty with Japan should be made soon, the occupation terminated and future guidance of the country turned over to the United Nations.

Papers Print Statement

All newspapers printed MacArthurs statement in full, without editorial comment. It was the major topic of conversation.

The supreme commander's main points coincided with hopes which government officials have long expressed—an early peace, end of military occupation, prompt determination of reparations and more permanent economic assistance.

Some young intellectuals were concerned lest withdrawal of American occupation forces would stimulate stronger political activity by extremists and checkmate the growth of democracy.

These Japanese commented that a civilian administration might not have the same restraining influence on Communist elements that MacArthur and the occupation army have had.

Doubt UN Ability

Japanese generally are pessimistic about the authority of the United Nations. Reading of disputes in its sessions, they are inclined to think its control would subject Japan to inter-Allied friction. This generally has been lacking in Japan because of the dominant American influence.

The Japanese feel themselves tied to Americans and that the United States is more willing and able to advance tangible financial and physical assistance which this country needs.

MacArthur told the correspondents in his interview that Japan has been demilitarized and the process of democratization is nearing completion. But he said economic warfare "is still as bitter here as when guns were firing."

C. of C. Blasts Ohio Budget

Declares Herbert Abandons Campaign Promise to Reduce State Tax Burden.

(More about legislature on Page 5)

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 18—The Ohio Chamber of Commerce today declared that Gov. Thomas J. Herbert had "turned his back" on his promises of economy in government and added that if economy were practiced, the legislature would have to do it alone.

The Chamber, remarking that "there has been deep concern for several weeks over the quixotic attitude of the administration of the state's fiscal problems," also labeled the governor's estimates of income as "fiscally unsafe."

The blast at the governor, contained in a private bulletin to Chamber members, came as some members of the house finance committee said they were determined to cut at least $30,000,000 from the $532,900,000 biennial budget bill submitted by the governor.

The Chamber, declaring the proposed financial program called for an increase of $108,835,855 in operating expenses, recalled this campaign statement of the governor:

"We are pledged to an immediate and substantial reduction in state taxes. Ohio can afford a cut in state tax revenues of 50 million dollars and still meet all its obligations in every direction including the public schools and local government."

The Chamber, declaring the governor had "capitulated to the pressure from tax spending groups and most notably the powerful school lobby," further quoted from his campaign statements:

"* * * the time has arrived for the practice of rigid and efficient economy in the operation of government. * * * it is time to give the taxpayer a break'."

The Chamber asserted that Herbert in his budget recommendations "abandoned the principles of frugality and prudence in state expenditures which marked the records of the two immediate predecessor chief executives—John W. Bricker and Frank J. Lausche."

DRIVER ARRESTED FOLLOWING CHASE

Collides with 3 Cars; Fined, License Suspended.

Arrested after his car had collided with three other automobiles yesterday afternoon, Warren L. Brooks, of near Richwood was fined a total of $150 and costs and his driving rights suspended for three years when he pleaded guilty today in municipal court to charges of driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident.

Brooks was arrested at Center and State streets by Patrolman L. W. Shadaker, after a chase. Patrolman Shadaker was picked up at West Center and Prospect streets by Carl Phillians of 295 Leader street, who was chasing Brooks in a car.

Phillians, driving behind Brooks, had seen him hit two cars at West Center and Orchard streets. He followed Brooks as the latter turned up Oak street and over East Mill. On East Mill street Brooks struck a parked car owned by John J. Miller of near Marion.

The cars struck at West Center and Orchard streets were driven by Bud M. Burke, 26, of 111 Superior street and Walter F. Creson, 26, of East Cleveland. They had been driving in opposite directions and were sideswiped as Brooks attempted to pass, police reported.

Patrolman Shadaker said Brook's younger brother, a passenger in his car, said he had tried in vain to get his brother to stop after the accidents.

Two Gunmen Rob Loan Office in Hamilton

By The Associated Press

HAMILTON, O., March 18—Two gunmen held up the Welfare Finance Co. in downtown Hamilton shortly before noon today and, police were told, escaped with $625 in cash after forcing the employes into a washroom.

Mrs. Millard Traber, manager of the office, and Miss Patricia Delano, cashier, said one of the men directed them to the washroom while the other scooped up the money. Miss Delano said $625 was missing.

Cook's Nomination Confirmed in Senate

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 18—The nomination of Henry Earl Cook of Bucyrus, O., as a director of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. was confirmed yesterday by the senate. Cook will fill out a six-year unexpired term ending Sept. 6, 1951. The post pays $10,000 a year.

RED CROSS CAMPAIGN REPORT IS SCHEDULED

Workers To Be Heard From Tomorrow Night.

Workers in both the city and county Red Cross drive will meet Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock at headquarters 193 East Center street to report on contributions received since the last meeting Friday night.

It is the hope of Clarence Shockney, chairman, and heads of the various divisions and teams, that a full report can be made to date and that all workers will be on hand.

As the time for closing the drive is nearing, reports show that many contributors have not been heard from. This is due, the workers feel, to a misunderstanding of this year's campaign plan, "giving at the home," instead of at places of employment. Anyone who has not yet contributed is asked to contact the workers in their particular precinct, call the Red Cross office or leave their contribution at the campaign headquarters.

Slightly more than seven thousand dollars is needed to reach the Marion county goal of $27,060, the figures show.

300 ROAD STRIKERS RETURN TO DUTIES

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 18—Three hundred highway department workers who had been on strike since last weekend returned to their jobs today.

A new conference has been arranged for Thursday between Gov. Herbert and union leaders.

Ralph Wolf, executive secretary of the state highway department, reported he had received a telephone call from Elmer S. Barrett, division engineer at Chillicothe, saying all the workers had returned to their jobs.

Following a conference with representatives of the strikers, Gov. Herbert announced late yesterday that Michael J. Lyden, president of the Ohio Federation of Labor, had telephoned him from Youngstown that the strikers would return to work this morning.

The governor said Lyden requested a conference "in the near future" between the executive committee of the OFL and the governor on strikers' grievances. The governor set the conference for 3 p. m. Thursday.

Lyden, who came to Columbus last night, declined to disclose what had prompted the union to issue a back-to-work order.

UNION HEAD SHOT, WIFE IS KILLED

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 18—James Crowley, 44, president of the Chicago bartenders union, was shot and wounded seriously and his wife was killed by gunmen who fired shotgun blasts into their automobile in front of their South Side home early today.

Crowley's wife, Elizabeth, 44, who was in the driver's seat, was shot in the left temple and was dead when police arrived. Crowley who was struck by six shotgun pellets in his right shoulder and arm, was removed to a hospital.

The couple had driven in front of their home at 7225 Merrill avenue when they were fired upon, apparently, police said, by assassins who had been in hiding awaiting their return home. The car was riddled with shotgun pellets.

REVIEW ASKED OF ARMY, NAVY MERGER PLAN

Congress Seeks Restudy of Situation in Light of Developments in Greece.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 18—Congress asked Army and Navy leaders today to revalue the projected armed forces merger in the light of President Truman's proposal for blocking communist expansion in Greece and Turkey.

Chairman Gurney (R-SD), said members of the senate armed forces committee were prepared to ask Secretary of War Patterson and Secretary of the Navy Forrestal to answer and enlarge on this question:

What effect is American intervention with cash and limited military moves in the affairs of southern Europe likely to have on plans to fuse the nation's land, sea and air forces?

Some legislators, including Senator Taft (R-Ohio), have wondered whether the decision to aid Greece and Turkey might provoke Russia to war. However, Senator Baldwin (R-Conn), said in a radio address last night he does not believe the Soviet Union is prepared for or wants war.

Taft Counters

Taft meanwhile countered a Democratic plea for a bi-partisan statement supporting Mr. Truman's Greek-Turkey plan with an assertion that the administration must take the Republicans into its confidence on worldwide foreign policy if it desires full-fledged cooperation in that field.

Taft, who heads the senate G.O.P. policy committee, told a reporter he does not believe congressional Republicans are prepared to act now on the suggestion by Gael Sullivan, executive director of the Democratic national committee, for a two-party pronouncement.

Sullivan made this suggestion in a letter last night to G.O.P. Chairman Carroll Reece, noting that Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, already has supported the Truman move.

Taft said he had not talked to Reece and therefore had no idea what the Republican chairman would reply. But the Ohio senator said he assumed Reece would tell Sullivan it is up to the Republicans in congress to decide on a foreign policy matter of such grave import.

Raises Question

"I wonder if the administration is prepared to really take the Republicans into its confidence on all matters of foreign policy throughout the world?" Taft asked.

"I have not seen any indication that the Republicans have been consulted about policy in China, where we seem to have insisted that the Nationalist government assimilate some Communist elements before we could offer it support. Neither have the Republicans been consulted about policy with regard to Latin America.

"Up to this time the bipartisan foreign policy has extended only to matters concerning Germany and the United Nations. If there is to be a full-fledged bi-partisan policy, the Republicans should be consulted about diplomacy on a worldwide basis."

Cleveland Reaches Goal In Red Cross Campaign

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 18—Local Red Cross fund drive leaders and workers today claimed Cleveland was the first city with a population of a million or more to achieve its 1947 Red Cross fund goal. With a minimum goal of $974,000, the returns were estimated at $981,023 by Campaign Chairman Robert A. Weaver.

Wheat Hits $3 On Grain Board

Chicago Records High Price Second Time in Ninety-Nine Years.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 18—Three-dollar wheat appeared on the Chicago Board of Trade today for the second time in the 99 year history of futures trading here.

March wheat reached $3.01 to $3.05 a bushel at the start of trading, an advance of as much as 8½ cents, as brokers with short March delivery commitments continued their almost frantic efforts to cover them. In the face of this heavy demand, little March wheat was offered for sale.

At the opening of trading yesterday there were short contracts totaling 690,000 bushels outstanding. There isn't that much wheat in Chicago. Result: the shorts must get wheat somewhere or cancel their commitments by buying in a soaring market.

Many of the short, unable to obtain actual grain, have bought futures, causing a spectacular upturn in March wheat.

Since Feb. 1 March wheat has advanced more than 80 cents a bushel. Traders say only two upturns in a similar period of time are comparable—before the first World War in 1917 and after the start of the Spanish-American war in 1898. The top price was $3.25 in 1917.

Trading ends in March futures at the close of March 22. The shorts have until then to cover commitments by making purchases. After that, they've got to deliver the actual grain by March 31.

Mills buying cash wheat in order to fulfill government contracts for flour, complicate the problem for shorts. Railroad box car shortages, curtailing shipments, provide additional difficulties. One result is that cash wheat has soared with futures.

Cash wheat sold as high as $2.96 at Kansas City and 2.90¼ at Minneapolis yesterday.

The situation in March wheat at Chicago resembles an old-fashioned corner, although grain experts said it differs from such an operation in that there is no clique attempting to manipulate prices.

CANCER DRIVE PLANS PUSHED

State Head of Society Chosen as Speaker for Opening Here.

Additional arrangements for the Marion campaign of the American Cancer society, to be held during April, were announced today by Richard Lister, campaign chairman.

L. A. Herget of Cleveland, managing director of the American Cancer society, Ohio division, will be principal speaker at the "kick-off" dinner to be held at Hotel Harding March 27. It also is planned to bring other out-of-town speakers here for the occasion. Places will be available for 135 persons. Representatives will be present from service clubs, labor groups and other organizations from Marion and surrounding communities. Tickets also will be sold at the door. Admission is $2.

Drive Dates Set

A drive for solicitations and membership subscriptions in the American Cancer society will be held April 1 through 12. Workers will canvass as many persons in Marion county as can be reached. A minimum of $1 contribution will be required for membership.

From April 14 to 30 coin cans will be distributed in business and industrial places and schools.

On Sunday afternoon, April 6, a round table discussion will be held by leaders in the campaign and authorities on cancer over WMRN.

A benefit ball will be sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and Kadgar Grotto April 30.

The American Cancer society, Ohio division, has named Edward S. Patterson, vice president of the First Central Trust bank of Akron, as Ohio state campaign chairman for the April fund-raising drive.

Characterized by the slogan "One in Eight Will Die from Cancer," the 1947 Ohio campaign goal is set at $750,000 of the $12,000,000 national goal.

Patterson, former vice president of the National City bank of Cleveland, will direct a force of volunteer lay and medical workers, in each of Ohio's 88 counties. Don H. Ebright, treasurer of Ohio, and 1946 chairman, will assist Patterson as co-chairman of the campaign.

How To Split Prize Worries Winners

By The Associated Press

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., March 18—Three young housewives wrestled with a very money-important problem today: How to divvy up a billiard table and 50 free cue lessons they won in a radio contest, plus other prizes totally worth $17,590.

The women — Mrs. William H. McCormick; her sister, Mrs. William H. Marmon, and a neighbor, Mrs. A. B. Timms, all of Lock Haven—won the prizes by correctly identifying "Mrs. Hush" of NBC's Truth or Consequences program as Clara Bow, the former screen star.

All had agreed to divide the spoils if their guess was the winner. Mrs. McCormick's contest letter was selected.

In addition to the billiard table and lessons, the three women must split such items as an airplane, an automobile, a steam heating unit, a silver fox fur coat, a weekend in New York, a week's vacation at Sun Valley (Idaho), a year's supply of frozen foods, free maid service for a year, a completely equipped trailer, one coat of paint (inside and outside) for one house, a refrigerator — etc, etc.

Pupils at Campbell School in Program

A program was presented by the pupils of the Campbell school at a meeting of the Campbell School Community club Friday night.

The program was as follows: Easter scripture by Margie Parsell; song by the sixth, seventh and eighth grades; the Beatitudes, prayer and the salute to the flag by the school; song, first and second grades; piano solo, Wanda Oral Horn; song, third, fourth and fifth grades; vocal trio number by Betty, Anna Mary and Mabel Weaver; song, sixth, seventh and eighth grades; motion pictures, "Infantile Paralysis," "Tomorrow's Leaders," and "Farm Frolics," shown by Justin Parsell; story, Georgann Williams; and a story, by Marian Griffiths.

John P. Roth, vice president, was in charge of the meeting. Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. P. Roth and Mrs. Max Conklin. The committee for the April meeting will be Mrs. Robert Tarbill and Mrs. Robert Campbell.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

If Child Has Headaches

A good many people have the idea that children are not subject to headache. In this they are completely mistaken for youngsters do have headaches, sometimes, quite severe ones.

Headaches in the child may be produced by many different conditions, some of which may be trifling and temporary while others indicate disorders of the utmost seriousness. Thus, headache, in children should never be neglected or treated lightly. In every case headache deserves attention and careful study to discover the cause so that effective treatment can be given.

Sometimes, to be sure, a complaint of headache on the part of a child means no more than an attempt to escape a distasteful task.

Children imitate their elders. If the parents complain of headaches in order to get out of doing something they do not want to do, the child also is likely to learn to complain of headache when he is faced with some unpleasant task. Thus, parents should not complain of illness in the presence of their children, and certainly should not complain of illness when none is present.

One of the more frequent causes of headaches in children is eye strain, especially the type of eye condition known as astigmatism, due to abnormal shape of the eyeball. If there is a great degree of eyesight trouble, simple tests will usually reveal it. However, the best thing to do is to have the youngster's eyes examined by a doctor.

Still another cause of headaches is anemia or a lessening of the amount of coloring in the blood. It is a simple matter for the physician to examine the blood to determine when anemia is present, and, of course, treatment of the anemia with iron-containing preparations and foods rich in iron such as liver, meat, eggs and whole-grain cereals will usually relieve the difficulty.

Children often develop headaches because of exposure to sunlight and glare, sitting in rooms without sufficient ventilation and lack of rest and sleep. Of course, these things are easily corrected.

A more unusual cause of headaches is a lack of sugar in the blood. Children are active and they burn up food materials rapidly. Active children need extra sugar. The headaches caused by a lack of sugar are easily relieved or prevented by giving the child sweets at the proper time.

Of course, headaches may be caused by more scerious conditions such as tumors of the brain, migraine, chronic kidney disorders, prolonged constiptation and sinus infections.

The child's complaints of headache should not be ignored, but a doctor should be consulted as soon as possible so that the source of the trouble can be determined.

DAILY LENTEN MEDITATIONS

IN THE CHRIST OF THE CROSS WE GLORY

"In the Christ of the Cross We Glory"

* * *

WE HAVE just passed the birthdays of some of our great men of our nation. We have listened to some speeches honoring these men who rendered such great service in founding this great democracy of the United States of America. We enjoyed these speeches very much, but we noticed that they contained much that we have heard down through the years. Then we thought, how tiring it would be if we had to listen to these addresses more than once a year.

However, in Christ, we have one that we listen to ministers preaching about Him twice on Sunday, year in and year out. Sunday School teachers teach about Him Sunday after Sunday. We gather together on prayer meeting nights and our people tell of His wonderful influence upon their lives. We never tire of hearing of Him. His glory grows with the passing of the years.

Boyle Finds a Tout Who Hates Race Tracks

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

ABOARD A BUS IN FLORIDA—I have met a number of men who lived happily on their wives' money, but today for the first time I met one who had been supported for more than 60 years by race tracks.

No minister ever preached a more fervent sermon against gambling than this elderly tout, a neatly dressed little character who was crowding 80 years.

"Going out to the track?" he asked as he sat down.

"No."

"Good. Anybody that plays horses is crazy," he snarled. "It's a losing game. Been doing it for 60 years. Managed to keep even myself. But I know horses. Made a lot of gamblers rich in my time.

Hal Boyle.

"Took $1,500 out of Hialeah the last week. Probably lose it up north next month. Yep, I follow them the year round. It's a nice hobby for an old man with nothing else to do."

"Had a good time in Florida?"

"Naw, I hate Florida. Had aches and pains in my legs for the first time in my life when I started coming here. Wouldn't come here if it wasn't for the horses. Hate the people. Worst in the world.

Sun Only Real Thing

"They'd take your teeth, these people — if they could. Well, they're beginning to close up the big hotel now. People starting north again. Now these crackers will have to go back to living on fish for the summer. I would not throw them a sardine.

"The sun is the only real thing here. Everything else is a racket."

The old tout grumbled contentedly against Florida for another ten miles, then began snarling again when I asked if he were married.

"Another racket," he exploded. "No, I stayed single harness all the way. Never worked at a regular job in my life either. Never will. All my brothers did. Are they any happier?"

The old man brooded.

"Son," he said, "the whole world is nuts. They try to justify the race tracks here by saying they help pay old age pensions. That's crazy, too.

"If they closed every race track business men could collect their bills. Anyway the people who go to race tracks wind up on the public welfare rolls, so how are you ahead? Everything's a racket."

He groaned as the bus jolted and a rheumatic pain shot through his withered legs.

Hates Ticket Racket

"Tried to buy me a train ticket north," he complained. "Fellow told me they were sold out for weeks. Started to leave and another fellow grabbed me and said, 'Come back tonight and slip something to that porter over there, and he'll fix you a seat.' Another racket! Honesty? Where can you find it. To hell with honesty anyway. I'd rather have my health back. Does that driver have to hit every bump?"

We rolled to a brief halt before the trace track entrance, and the old man had to wait for a few minutes while several women got off ahead of him.

"Look at them," he gritted. "Tonight they'll be at the dog tracks trying to win back what the horses take from them this afternoon. They don't leave you elbow room at the windows."

Before starting down the aisle, the sharp-faced old man turned to me and said:

"Son, without that dollar you're nobody in this world. Remember that. I always keep $1,000 in my pocket, and nobody pushes me around."

Still muttering, he hobbled off the bus to the lonely pleasure of watching horses run around a dusty track.

He had looked too long at life through the same grilled windows—for the real payoff that isn't there.

Westinghouse Reopens Salary Conference

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, March 18—The Westinghouse Electric Corp. reopened talks today with the CIO-United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers union which is bargaining for improvements in wages and other provisions of its contract covering 75,000 Westinghouse workers.

Yesterday the company and representatives of the Federation of Westinghouse Independent Salaried Employes, representing 15,000 "white collar" workers, renewed after a five-week recess discussion of a federation request for a 16 per cent cost-of-living bonus

Short talks were given by Mrs. Lavon Weiningder, district deputy of Sycamore, Mrs. Marietta Heller, present district deputy of Morral, and Mrs. Mabel Peterson, past district deputy of Canby Temple. Gifts from the lodge were presented to the grand chief, the deputies and the most excellent chief, Mrs. Helen Granlee. Mr. and Mrs. Paul McWherter, who were recently married, were also presented a gift.

URGES MORE STRESS ON LOWER GRADES

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 18—A Cleveland educator declared today that Ohio's "present and the next generation of elementary school pupils will become the lost generations of education" unless better teachers are obtained for the elementary grades.

In an article published in Ohio Schools Magazine, Mark C. Shinnerer, first assistant superintendent of Cleveland schools, said Ohio now is reaping "the twin harvest of the years when elementary education was 'looked down upon'" and no one wanted to prepare for grade school teaching.

The elementary schools, he asserted, receive the most poorly paid and trained teachers, and the least funds for equipment. He commented, "degrading elementary education degrades all education, and eventually the community."

Shinnerer recommended: (1) single salary schedules for teachers to provide grade school pupils instructors of equal quality with those of high school students; (2) a recruitment campaign to get many more "capable people" to train for elementary education; (3) raising the rate of distribution of state aid under the school education program for elementary pupils to the level of high school students.

Convicted Sheriff Put On 2-Year Probation

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., March 18—Miles E. Young, 50, who spent more than a year in jail fighting conviction of a bribe charge, had his freedom today following Common Pleas Judge Golden C. Davis' order vacating a one-to-10 year prison sentence. Attorneys for both sides agreed to placing the former Clark county sheriff on probation for two years in consideration of his long stay in the county jail.

THE NATION TODAY

What Is Next Step for U. S. After Aid To Greece, Turkey?

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, March 18—This country faces some big questions in its new foreign policy.

That policy, at this time, is to stop the spread of Communism by giving help to the present governments of Greece and Turkey.

James Marlow

(Greek Communists are trying to overthrow the government there. And Turkey is under steady pressure from her neighbor, Russia.)

If we don't try to stop the spread of Communism right now, here's the most extreme thing which could happen:

All Europe and the rest of the world might go Communist and we'd stand alone, the last refuge of Capitalism.

We, then, could hardly hope to lick the world. But we're strong now and perhaps could whip any nation, including Russia, that got in our way.

So, by acting now, we might save ourselves from being overwhelmed later.

President Truman wants to stop the spread now. He's asked congress for $400,000,000 for Greece and Turkey.

And right there comes the No. 1 question:

When we've helped Greece and Turkey, do we stop right there in efforts to halt the spread of Communism?

Or is this just the start? Do we go on from there, helping every country which seems in danger of falling under Russia's thumb?

(The President told congress: "The free peoples of the world look to us for support in maintaining their freedom.")

Congress seems sure to give the President the money he asked for Greece and Turkey.

What Comes Next

To do otherwise would discredit him and our foreign relations.

But this congress, which has been talking of cutting expenses, probably will talk long on this question: where after Greece and Turkey?

How long can we go on handing out supplies and money? Can we go on indefinitely like that without having war with Russia? That question is being asked in the senate now.

So far Russia hasn't said anything official about Mr. Truman's new foreign policy. It isn't likely to remain quiet forever, and for this, if no other reason:

In stepping into the internal affairs of Greece, this country is ignoring the United Nations which we helped create to solve international problems.

Mr. Truman said the time is too pressing to wait for action by the United Nations. But would we permit Russia to make that excuse if she openly wanted to do something of the same kind?

Once we do it, Russia may feel free to do likewise. Then what happens to the United Nations?

Question of Democracy

So far this story has dealt only with the problems this nation faces in protecting its national welfare. But the question of democracy is part of all this, too.

In this country political democracy—political opposition and the free vote—is the backbone of the government and the way of life.

Communists don't bother with it. They'll use political democracy to gain power, if they can, and then wipe it out by crushing opposition.

But what do we do?

Would we—once we've poured millions of dollars into a country to help stop Communism—stand idly by if the Communists had a chance of coming to power in regular, free election?

Former Marion Man Takes Chest Position

A former Marion county resident, Homer W. Morgenthaler, assistant executive director of the Roanoke Community Fund, Roanoke, Va., has accepted a position at Greenville, S. C. as director of the Community Chest and Council of Social agencies in that city. He will assume his new duties the first of April. He is the son of Mrs. Emma Morgenthaler of 270 Orchard street and also has a number of relatives in and near Marion. He was graduated from Pleasant Centralized school.

Mr. Morgenthaler was graduated from Ohio State university and took over his duties in Roanoke in December of 1944 after serving in the personnel office of the American Red Cross in Washington, D. C. He served as executive secretary of the social planning division, which is designed to coordinate the efforts of social agencies in Roanoke. He was named assistant executive director of the fund, a position which includes the social planning work and other duties, a short time ago. A member of the Roanoke Kiwanis club he was active in community work and is secretary of the Roanoke area public solicitation review board.

Three Marion Girls On B. G. Committees

Three Marion girls, students at Bowling Green State university at Bowling Green, O., are serving on committees for the Phi Mu sorority's informal disc dance, "Spring Fever," to be held Friday night, March 21, according to a report received from the university. They are Miss Helen Gruber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gruber of 698 East Center street, serving on the invitation committee, and Misses Mary and Ruth Lyon, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Lyon of near Marion, serving on the refreshment and publicity committees, respectively.

Miss Gruber, a sophomore at the university, was graduated from Harding High school in 1945. She is majoring in personnel work. Miss Mary Lyon, a sophomore elementary education major, is sorority chaplain and a member of Treble Clef, women's glee club, and the association for childhood education. Her sister, a sophomore business education major, is a member of Quill Type, business education club, Pi Omega Pi, business education honorary, the orchestra, and Treble Clef, the women's glee club. They were graduated from Harding High school in 1944 and 1945, respectively.

OVEN HEAT WENT UP AS GOERING BURNED

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, March 17—The U. S. Army's chief mortician in the European theater disclosed today that when Hermann Goering was cremated, the bulk of his body sent temperature in the brick ovens up 500 degrees.

"It went up so much," said Rex S. Morgan of Denver, Colo., former Army captain, "that we didn't need to use any gas to cremate the next three men."

Morgan said in an interview that the older men, such as Col. Gen Jodl and Field Marshall Keitel left ashes which were green, showing they had taken large quantities of medicine Normally, Morgan stated, ashes are gray.

The 25-year-old man who is now a student at the University of Pennsylvania said he was present at the hanging of the war criminals at Nuernberg and that the bodies were turned over to him as soon as they were hung.

Following the cremation, the bodies were turned over to other military officials who scattered the ashes, Morgan said, adding he did not know where the ashes were taken.

PROTEST MILK RULING

By The Associated Press

COURT WON'T RULE ON LABOR CASE

Sidney Man Loses Appeal on "Unfair" Charge.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 18—The supreme court yesterday refused to rule on an employer's contention that the right of freedom of speech permitted him to express to his workers his personal views against a CIO union.

C. D. Beck & Company of Sidney, O., contended its managing partner had the constitutional right to call the union a "racket," to tell employes that if they joined the union they were "sticking their necks out," and to urge them to go to a union meeting but to return with changed minds—when at the same time he told the workers the decision was up to them and if they wanted a union it was all right with him.

The case arose during the war while the company was making buses for the Army. The national labor relations board found the company had engaged in unfair labor practices because of anti-union statements and because of its course of conduct. It ordered the practices stopped and directed restoration of two employes who the board said were discharged for union activities.

The company in petitioning the supreme court for a review said the two were fired after the war department objected to slowing production. The firm said it was told by an ordinance official to "pick out the fellows that you know are actually holding her (production) up, and fire them."

The justice department opposed a supreme court review. The department said the U. S. circuit court in Cincinnati had properly approved the board's action. The department said C. D. Beck, the company's managing partner, told an employe he preferred an AFL union to one affiliated with the CIO "since the latter had 'Communistic tendencies.'"

The CIO automobile workers union began organization efforts at the plant in 1944.

House Committee Sharpening Shears To Prune Big Budget

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 18—House finance committee members who sharpened their pruning shears over the weekend got within whackin' distance of Ohio's record $532,000,000 biennial budget bill for the first time today.

Representatives said at the bill's preview that they were determined to cut at least $30,000,000 from proposed 1947-48 expenditures to keep the state in a sound financial position.

"If the budget bill isn't trimmed that much at later hearings," one house leader said, "the legislature will be back in two years levying new taxes, and even the governor doesn't want that."

Finance Director H. D. Defenbacher, who helped prepare Gov. Thomas J. Herbert's budget, was called before the committee to answer a bombardment of questions.

Committee Chairman Paul H. Ballard (R-Jackson) said he particularly wanted to know how recommended appropriations increases of around $130,000,000 could be reconciled with a budget only some $90,000,000 above expenditures actually listed for 1945-46.

"And as for the governor's shotgun marriage between the house and senate reports on available funds, it just wont take," Ballard asserted.

Estimates Revenues

A special house committee headed by Ballard said the $422,000,000 taken in by the state the last two years should be used as a base for 1947-48 appropriations. Sen. Albert L. Daniels (R-Highland), senate finance committee head, estimated revenues would approximate at least $488,000,000 this biennium.

The governor in his budget message said the house report failed to include $28,234,000 in anticipated federal subsidies, and that Daniels' figures should have included a $37,000,000 local government fund, thus bringing both totals to approximately $450,000,000.

Other legislative committees called hearings on proposals to permit manufacture of colored oleomargarine, to establish five state tuberculosis hospitals, and to create a turnpike commission empowered to build super-highways to be paid for out of tolls.

The senate liquor committee last night recommended passage of a proposal to nullify a 91-year-old law banning sale of intoxicants within two miles of state and county agricultural fairs by a 6-1 vote. The lone dissenter was Sen. George G. Shurtz (R-Coshocton). The bill was sponsored by Sen. Allen N. Corlett (R-Cuyahoga).

Loses in Committee

The liquor committee refused by a vote of 4 to 3 to recommend passage of a measure by Shurtz which would have permitted municipalities to set early closing hours for bars. Hours now are fixed by state law.

The senate unanimously passed and sent to the house bills to increase from two tenths to five tenths of a mill the maximum levy cities may submit to voters for recreational purposes, and to increase salaries of Cincinnati municipal judges to $9,000 and the presiding judge to $9,500.

Sen. E. E. Addison (R-Franklin) introduced a measure to boost minimum pay of county commissioners from $1,200 to $1,800 a year and maximum from $5,000 to $7,500 on a sliding scale based on population.

The senate received confirmation the governor's appointment of John J. Kepler of Summit county to the industrial commission's board of claims in the Canton district for a term ending Sept. 30, 1949, and two selections to the aviation board.

SENATE GETS BILL ON FAIR LIQUOR SALES

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 18—The Ohio senate received today the recommendation of its liquor committee for passage of a bill to permit sale of intoxicants within two miles of agricultural fairs.

The measure to nullify a 91-year-old statute, unearthed last year by the Women's Christian Temperance Union, was voted out by the committee 6 to 1 last night at its second hearing. It was sponsored by Sen. Allen N. Corlett (R-Cuyahoga).

The vote on changing the anti-liquor zoning law, which closed bars within two miles of the Ohio State Fair and some county fairs last year, was called for by John D. Marshall, former Cleveland mayor, representing the Buckeye Brewers association.

Appearing against the measure were S. P. McNaught of the Anti-Saloon league, U. S. Commissioner Robert Newlon of Columbus, representing the W.C.T.U., and Rev. Frank H. Throop of the Columbus Central Presbyterian church.

NEW TRIAL ASKED

By The Associated Press.

COALVILLE, Utah, March 18—Asserting they had discovered new evidence, attorneys for Eliseo J. Mares Jr., of Antonio, Colo., who was convicted of first degree murder in the killing of Jack B. Stalling of Corning, O., have filed a motion for a new trial. Judge Joseph G. Jeppson deferred sentencing of the 18-year-old youth until May 6.

SEES U. S. LOSING NEXT WORLD WAR

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., March 18—Warning that America's "air threat will be over the Arctic area," the deputy commander of the Army air forces was on record today as saying this country "will not win World War III."

Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, also chief of staff for air, yesterday told the national areonautical society's local women's chapter that the "next war could come from the areas of vast population and great industries.

"It will come from north of the equator and from either western Europe, eastern Asia or central Asia. Our air threat will be over the Arctic aren."

The AAF officer, who retires June 15, asserted "our present supine position will cost us another victory because we will not have time to get up off the floor. We will not win World War III. Due to the valor of our allies we had two years to prepare our defenses and to gear our industries in World War II. I doubt if we will have two days next time."

Prescribes Spanking As Juvenile Cure

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 18—For truculent teen-agers who take over the driver's seat from parents and teachers, Dr. Clyde V. Hissong prescribed an old-fashioned remedy today—a trip to the woodshed and application of a paddle to junior's backside.

A rash of teacher-student-parent disputes resulting in school strikes and court action in several places in Ohio brought forth a statement from Dr. Hissong, who is state education director.

"Is the lumber shortage so serious in Ohio," he asked, "that a distraught father is unable to find a board large enough to make a good paddle after he has exhausted all other avenues of reaching an understanding through more peaceful democratic procedures?"

Dr. Hissong advised teachers against taking jobs "where teen-agers seem to have taken over authority of the home and assumed community leadership." A teacher accepting a job in such a community, he said, "is practically doomed to failure before he has begun."

BUC ISSUES REPORT

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 18—Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reported today 118,129 persons were registered for work with the Ohio State employment service at the end of February. Dale Dunifon, administrator of the bureau, said this represented a one per cent decrease from January but included a smaller proportion of war veterans.

18 MORE CHARGED IN SUGAR FRAUDS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 18—Ten new indictments naming 13 persons were returned by the federal grandjury yesterday as part of its investigation into a nationwide black market in sugar.

The action brought the total indictments returned in the investigation so far to 34, and the total number of defendants to 78.

Raymond McClory, assistant U. S. attorney, said yesterday's indictments involved approximately 35,000 counterfeit stamps, worth 165,000 pounds of sugar.

The indictments alleged Ezra Reesman and Mortimer Kevin Chicago attorneys attempted to sell 10,000 stamps to Paul De Ross, Los Angeles candy manufacturer.

Hyman Smith and Robert H. Grant, Milwaukee, were charged with possession of counterfeit stamps. Others named in the new indictments, all of Chicago, also were charged with possession of counterfeit stamps.

TRIAL OF PHYSICIAN TO CONCLUDE TODAY

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 18—The trial of Dr. Lee B. Warren charged with performing illegal abortions, was to be concluded today with Common Pleas Judge Stanley L. Orr charging the jury and giving the case for deliberation about noon.

Counsel for Dr. Warren and for the state summed up yesterday after the 66-year-old Elyria doctor stumbled through more cross-examination by assistant Cuyahoga County Prosecutor John J. Mahon.

Mahon tangled Dr. Warren up in questions about a physician at Huron road hospital here, Dr. Thomas L. Laughlin.

Dr. Warren first said he did not know him, but Mahon then showed the defendant a card on which Dr. Warren had admittedly written Dr. Laughlin's name and telephone number.

The card had been found by detectives in Dr. Warren's Cleveland office.

Dr. Laughlin earlier had testified for the state that he had treated two women at Huron Road hospital for peritonitis following abortion and that Dr. Warren had called him to learn how they were getting along. One died.

Dr. Warren also admitted he used a peephole and buzzer with which the entrance to his Cleveland office was equipped.

Farm and Home Week Opens At Ohio State Today

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 18—Ohio State university's annual farm and home week, which annually brings thousands of farmers and their wives for lectures and discussions of new ways to lift the mortgage, opened today.

Top events on today's program included an address by John Strohm, president of the American Agricultural Editors' association who recently completed a tour of Soviet Russia's farm lands.

Experts from Ohio State's college of agriculture gave talks on all phases of farming in the Buckeye State and farm equipment makers filled one hall with their latest tractors, combines, and manure spreaders.

Speakers scheduled during the four-day meeting closing Friday include Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, and state agriculture director Frank N. Farnsworth, who speak tomorrow.

Leon H. Keyserling, vice chairman of the council of economic advisers, Washington, will discuss national economic problems Thursday.

Ohio Flying Farmers, an organization of farm aviation enthusiasts, are scheduled to rendezvous at Scott Field, the university airport, Friday then go to the campus to hear the address by C. R. A. Brown, state director of aviation, and take part in a forum on present and future use of planes on farms. Ray Kelsey of the Ohio Farmer will be moderator.

FIVE more countries, at least, are expected to line up behind Greece and Turkey for United States dollars to keep their governments from succumbing to the revolutionary mischief of Communist agitation. They are Iran, Syria, Lebanon, Hungary and Palestine. All of them, it will be noted, are oil producers, key element in all power politics in the Mediterranean basin.

According to estimates by congressmen, the total cost at the beginning of the Truman administration's new policy of fighting Communism with dollars may hit a billion dollars. That is a conservative estimate of initial cost; the cost over a five-year period might be many times that amount. It already has dawned on more Americans than ever saw the light before that British skill in diplomacy grew out of necessity as well as native ability. Great Britain in its palmiest days never could afford the illusion that security could be bought. British statesmen had to balance international power with diplomacy, because they never had the illusion of unlimited wealth.

The United States has accepted responsibility for helping free peoples maintain their freedom. It has recognized its responsibility in this respect because it had no choice. For the same reasons of necessity which caused the United States to fight in two world wars to protect its own security, it now is being drawn inexorably into the latest issue over human rights. The line forms on the left for those who reject the doctrine of totalitarianism. It is the United States, not Soviet Russia, which is the hope of the world's liberals. There is nothing liberal about a police state and terrorism.

The question in American minds is not, in other words, about principle; American friendship for people who reject dictatorship and terror is automatic. But there is a very considerable question in American minds about procedure.

A national government devoted to the theory of inflated public spending as a cure-all is asking congress and the people to accept a policy of dollar diplomacy. The United States, having used up 50-odd billion dollars in the name of wartime lend-lease, is now asking taxpayers to back a long-term program of peacetime give-away.

It is going to take more than dollars to keep up the good fight for freedom. The American taxpayer is patient; he will pay and pay and pay. But he also will think—and it will be a miracle if he does not think that dollar diplomacy in the Mediterranean basin or the Latin American banana republics is a poor substitute for an international policy based on something besides money.

Our War Dead

THIS month the families of World War II's fallen soldiers who were buried overseas are being asked whether they desire the men to remain where they now lie or have them brought back to this country for reburial.

Of 77,901 who lost their lives in Europe in World War I, 46,310 were disinterred and returned to the United States at the request of next to kin. The task cost approximately $20,000,000 and required two years to complete. This time it will be a costlier and longer project, for American war dead lie in 209 cemeteries from Okinawa and Iwo Jima to central Germany.

By providing this choice for the bereaved families, the war department is keeping faith, insofar as mere men can, with those who paid the heaviest price in World War II. There are some so constituted that the return of their loved ones to American soil will help them find emotional surcease. There are others who readjust themselves differently to the tragic fact of death and realize that, by leaving their sons or their husbands in well-kept burial grounds overseas, their loved ones join "that innumerable brotherhood" which knows no nationality.

Worlds Apart

IN THE Bering Sea are the islands of Big Diomede and Little Diomede, one American, one Russian, and just one mile apart.

Geographically, Russia and the United States may almost touch but ideationally they are worlds apart. Otherwise the Soviets would never call the Salvation Army a "militaristic" organization.

This observation provides the English-speaking world with one of those grim smiles the Nazis used to generate with their announcements that the Luftwaffe had dropped bombs at Random, an English industrial suburb.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

What Do People Want in These Perilous Times?

WASHINGTON, March 18 — Three or four of us were sitting around chewing the fat, and an ex-Marine said right to my face he wondered if people were really interested in reading columns any more. He said the old Washington chit-chat about who was fighting who, or prophesying dire things which never happen—well that sort of stuff did not seem to be wanted by so many people in these perilous times. I failed to blush, but put on my best puzzled expression. He went on to say he had dropped past a bookshop, and had found the window filled with literature about mental health and happiness, and how to get along in the kind of world we live in—get along pleasantly as we can by our inspirations and thoughts, religions, ideas. Philosophy was what the people wanted, he said, good, simple every day reasoning on the plain philosophy of life. They all looked at me.

Talk Things Over

My philosophy is to keep quiet about such matters and profit in my own thoughts by what others say, but they were in earnest and troubled about questions such as whether there will be another war, whether the unions have captures the Republicans, or vice versa, and where is it all going anyway, so I suggested we get together to see if we could agree on a recipe for the troubled ex-serviceman. We started with questions and answers like this:

Q.—Will there be another war?

A.—Wars arise from the desires of men. Within each man normally there is a desire to get ahead, to excel and conquer. Now man has not been able to civilize these desires within himself to an extent where he can live in peace at home. How can he do on an international scale what he cannot do on a national, state or local scale? We agreed wars have always arisen, the last few from weak nations but many from strong nations, and it would be impossible to prevent wars by simply making strong nations weak or weak nations strong. We agreed that, yes, there will always be wars. (You can see we got along further than the radio roundtables which merely succeed in airing conflicting views and always fail to reach a conclusion.)

Q.—Is education essential to happiness for man?

A.—The questioner was nearly shouted down. Of course not. The happiest people most frequently are the least educated people. One fellow said he had never seen a discontented cow. But we also agreed that education enables man to attain higher appreciations of life, to enjoy more things.

Q.—What is the best religion?

A.—This stumped us for a while. We finally agreed that it was whatever religion you believed in. If you were born in it, you would very likely seek in its realm for your inspirations and spiritual solace. But one of our group held out against a unanimous decision without reservations (in a way like the supreme court which writes three concurring opinions). He said he believed in the religion of nature.

Q.—What in the world is the religion of nature?

A.—The theory of God as manifested through Christ and the scriptures, but not necessarily by any particular church. It is the theory that God created the universe in which there exists the spirits of both good and evil. You can see this in all the elements of nature, the rain which waters the ground also furnishes man with drink, as well as making crops grow to feed him, but a storm of rain or snow may destroy lives and crops. The decay of plant life furnishes the best fertilizer for the growth of foods, but in nature also, there are beetles and borers Nature itself is a struggle for survival, a struggle for existence in a well balanced conflict It is a test you might say. Its elements are both good and evil In man himself there is both good and evil inclinations. Thus nowhere in this world is there perfection, only a conflict of these simplest forces in which every man must be tested.

Q.—But is this a religion or simply an observable philosophy?

A.—It is the foundation of all religion, except anti-religions like atheism which teaches that man is God. Therefore all religions are philosophically good and teach a sound philosophy of life urging man to improve himself. We all agreed man must believe in something or he will lack inspiration totally. If he believes man himself is God, or in a religion of self alone, he will lack any greater inspiration than himself. That would only answer the yearnings of ego, which is a dangerous thing, thing, whereas religion answers the yearnings of man for a greater inspiration

Q.—What is the only good column written today?

A.—I answered that myself, and straightforwardly too.

Back On The Dam If Not On The Ticket

A move is under way in congress to change the name of the world's highest dam from Boulder back to Hoover.

Originally named for Herbie, it was changed to Boulder in 1933, when the former president was being blamed for everything from Halley's Comet to failure of the '32 hop crop.

Those were the days when a certain vacuum cleaner was selling on its merits and in spite of its name.

The President's name was Roosevelt and his predecessor's anathema. Where necessary in polite conversation, parents spelled it out, "H-o-o-v-e-r," lest Junior learn the facts of life too soon.

It was then Secretary of Interior Ickes who led the move to change the name of Hoover Dam But he had lots of support. Indeed, some of the more ardent New Dealers wanted to rename Lincoln Memorial and Grant's Tomb.

It was not, however, strictly a partisan issue. There is an old saying that an elephant never forgets, but in Mr. Hoover's case, the Republican party was certainly trying

Still, it's good that the dam's original name is to be restored I hold no brief for the title, "Hoover Dam," but it is refreshing, after all these years, again to see the words in that sequence

Mythology of Reparations

By RAYMOND MOLEY

(This is the third and last of three articles on Mythology of Reparations).

* * *

RUSSIA'S quest for reparations from Germany is futile. Payment in money is out of the question. It hasn't even been considered from Yalta to the present Moscow meeting Reparations in plant and equipment have been self-defeating Reparations out of current production are impossible, because there are too many prior liens against it. There remains to be considered reparations in manpower, advanced by the Soviets as a possible and practical means of compelling Germans to rebuild what Germans destroyed.

No agreement has been reached on this subject among the Allies, although Roosevelt indicated vague approval at Yalta. Labor in America has been opposed. So was the British Labor party, although the British Labor government has made no bones about using prisoners of war for labor.

Millions in Forced Labor

Russia has exacted a great deal of forced labor from war prisoners and seized civilians. There are 3,000,000 such people working in Russia. But this is single-handed action by the Soviets, not official reparations. When peace with Germany is declared, the prisoners must be released. Such utilization of forced labor is profitable. It is estimated that these workers are worth $2,000,000,000 a year to Russia.

Aside from reparations, Russia has received valuable territorial grants—call them what you will. The port of Koenigsburg will ultimately yield immense material returns. Likewise, the territories east of the Curzon Line.

David Ginsburg, in his report, "The Future of German Reparations," suggests that after a few years, when Germany has recovered, she may be able to pay a portion of her excess production. The amount of such payments is problematical. It could not be anywhere near the amount anticipated in the Potsdam agreement. And by the time it could be paid, the international picture might be so changed that the Potsdam plan would be modified or relinquished.

Past experience has shown that reparations stretching over a long period are never paid

Trade Agreement Proposal

Another Ginsburg idea is to suggest to the Soviets that they join in a general German settlement on the basis of trade agreements. Under such agreements, the Soviets and other reparation claimants would supply raw materials and essential supplies and receive, in return, a portion of the finished products. Thus, Germans would work out their fines at home.

Finally, Ginsburg, raises the question of a direct loan to the Soviets from the United States. Whatever may be the difficulties in reaching agreement with the Soviets, the fact is that they have, over the years, been food financial risks. In prewar years, many American firms found this to be true. It might be much cheaper to make a loan of $1,000,000,000 to Russia than to pay Germany to enable her to pay reparations. A billion dollars would purchase up-to-date and efficient industrial equipment in America for Russia. This would more than compensate Russia for the equipment expected from Germany. It would also provide business for American capital goods producers.

The matter of a loan, however, is heavily involved with critical political differences. Whether by a loan the many problems which now vex Russian-American relations can be eased depends on many things. Not the least of these is the skill and resourcefulness of our negotiations. The other is the extent to which the Soviets grow to realize the futility of past efforts to hatch the china egg of reparations.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, March 18, 1937.

Amelia Earhart landed her globe-girdling "flying laboratory" at Wheeler field, Honolulu completing her 2,400-mile journey from Oakland, Calif. in less than 16 hours.

Trapped on the second floor of their home by a fire, Mr. and Mrs Donald Mason, their three children and Mrs Mason's brother, Ralph Miley, made a perilous escape when flames gutted the first floor of the building

A total of 425 crushed and mangled bodies of children and teachers had been removed from the blast-shattered wreckage of a consolidated school at New London, Tex. An accumulation of gas caused an explosion which wrecked the building. The tragedy was said to be the nation's worst school disaster.

Dr. and Mrs Warren C. Sawyer of White Oaks farm were on a cruise to Havana and Nassau aboard the liner Empress of Australia.

Making up for parties postponed during the rush of winter activities, members of the Eastside Mothersingers rolled the seasons into one and celebrated Christmas, Easter, St Patrick's day, Thanksgiving, Valentine day, Halloween and the Fourth of July at a party at the home of Mrs. George Whysall on Chicago avenue.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Friday, March 18, 1927.

A Detroit man, reported to be one of two robbers who held up R L Goetting in his grocery on Lee street the night of Jan. 15, was captured by Sheriff Deal and two deputies following a chase in which he was finally halted by fire from the officers' guns

Miss Isabelle Freer was hostess to the Art club at her home on Girard avenue

The Oak Street Community club gave the final entertainment of its social session with a program in which pupils of all grades took part and which was directed oy Misses Edna Finley and Esther Westlake.

One hundred youths from Marion and other points in the county met at the Y. M. C. A. for the first annual Older Boys conference. Don M. Burson, boys' work secretary, was supervisor of the meeting.

The Central Junior High basketball team defeated the Vernon Heights junior team 21-15 in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. The Central team consisted of Ruhl, Ruzzo, Adams, Wilhelm, Hinklin, McDaniels, Klingel and Castner, while in the Vernon Heights lineup were H Merchant, Schultz, Fairchild, Henry and Akron.

UN Should Not Be Ignored

By WALTER LIPPMANN

IN addition to its vague globalism, which has already caused much misunderstanding in many parts of the world, a most serious defect of the President's message was the treatment accorded to the United Nations. This defect can be corrected. It urgently needs to be corrected. Otherwise the American intervention will be highly vulnerable to criticism at home and abroad, and our task will be more difficult than it needs to be

The treatment of the UN has been explained, for example by Senator Vandenberg, on the ground that while "we must keep faith with the pledges to the Charter," it is "not practical at the immediate moment" to proceed "within the United Nations" because UN has no relief funds—and it has not yet concluded agreements with member nations for military support.

Now it is quite true that UN has neither the money nor the power to act. Almost certainly it is also true that if UN had the money and the power, the Soviet Union would veto action by the UN But that does not release us from our pledges under the Charter. Because the UN is unable to act collectively, it does not follow that we have the right to act unilaterally or even that if we have the right, that it is wise to exercise it.

Heart of Charter

The heart of the United Nations Charter and the soul of the whole undertaking is the covenant to consult with the other members, particularly the permanent members of the Security Council, when an issue of international security and peace is raised. Indisputably such an issue is raised here the President said so in his message. The fact that the UN is not capable of acting swiftly, effectively, or even of acting at all, does not relieve us of the obligation to consult the United Nations before we act.

It is possible, I realize, to argue that the letter of the Charter, if Article 106 is strictly and narrowly construed, does not oblige us in this specific case to "consult with one another" with "a view to such joint action on behalf of the organization as may be necessary for the purpose of maintaining international peace and security"

We could argue that the Greek government has invited us to intervene, that the exact language of Article 106 does not fit this case exactly. But if we do, we shall be sacrificing the spirit to the letter. For the obligation to consult is the paramount principle of the United Nations, and we do not have the right, nor is it our interest, to fail to uphold that principle

It was—to put it conservatively—an oversight to have discussed our proposed action before the President announced it to the world only with the British government, and not also with the French, the Chinese and the Russian That, however, is water over the dam, and the mistake can be repaired. The policy is not yet adopted. The President has not yet acted. He is still only asking congress for authority to act Before he can act, the whole proposal will be examined publicly by the committees and it will then be debated in congress

If the policy can be explained to congress, and therefore to the world, it can also be explained to the United Nations A full explanation, and a willingness to consider objections, would meet the obligation to consult There are many ways of doing this and any one of them, or all, would relieve us of the suspicion that we are evading our obligations

We could inform the secretary-general of the United Nations about our proposals, and invite him to take notice of the explanations which will be offered to congress Mr Austin could go before the Security Council and explain the proposals, not waiting until Mr Gromyko attacks them We could notify the United Nations that we shall not only explain what we intend to do and why, but also that we shall report to them at regular intervals what we have done and why We could, moreover, invite the leading interested nations to send official observers to Greece to see for themselves what we are doing

The great advantage of some such action on our part is that it would at once rehabilitate the moral authority of the United Nations and would not interfere with the efficiency of our action since the whole intervention must, because congress is a party to it, be conducted without secrecy and in full public view.

Advantages

But there are many other advantages of acting, as Senator Vandenberg puts it, "within the United Nations"—even though we do not act through the United Nations

This is the best way to answer the charge that we are doing what we have so often charged others, particularly the Russians, with doing—that we are acting unilaterally and for the purpose of domination and imperial aggrandizement.

Moreover, by going into Greece, we shall set up right on the frontier of the Soviet orbit, a demonstration of how we think a weak country, which is strategically important, should be treated by a great power We must make the demonstration attractive as well as convincing We must show not only that we have money and military strength and technical skill but also that we are the willing and eager servants of an international order, within which small nations can obtain assistance and protection without sacrificing their independence or their self-respect.

Not to act within the United Nations, and in accord with a broad affirmation of the spirit of the Charter, would be to aggravate our difficulties and to miss a golden opportunity. Let it not be said of us.

"Then rushed to meet the insulting foe, they took the spear, but left the shield."

For if the spear is our money, our prestige and our power, the shield is our readiness to be always faithful to the spirit of our pledges to mankind.

Setting Junior Right On Thrift and Hard Work

Father—Now, Junior, I want to have a little heart-to-heart talk with you.

Junior—Can I keep the radio on low, Dad?

Father—Oh, I suppose so, but I must ask you to listen to me. You seem to have a few strange notions about life and I want to straighten you out. First of all you must realize that you must be thrifty. Nobody can throw money around these days and . .

Radio—Good! You're right. The horse is a domestic animal common to the United States and you win the $200! And now, folks.

Father—To get anywhere in life a man must count pennies. He must save if he is to have any real future.

Radio (from another program)—Now remember, all you have to do to win this grand jackpot that has now reached $3,500 is to write an essay in 100 words why you like crispy-whispies, and identify the well-known singer whose first name is Bing. .

Junior—Whaddidja say, Dad?

Father—When I was a boy I only got 50 cents a week allowance I realized that common sense about money was what counted, and you must understand the same thing. .

Radio—Right! The Mississippi River IS in the United States! Yes sir! Now you have won $500 and are at the gateway to the grand prize of $7,000, a trip to Europe and two speedboats

Father—Turn that darned thing down!

Junior—I've got it turned down, Dad.

Father—As I was saying, my boy, the younger generation has in some way obtained the wrong idea of values. How do you suppose your mother and I have done as well as we have? By saving up for a rainy day. It is the only way.

Radio—O. K., Mrs. Tuttle, you have been chosen Queen for a Day. Your story of being middle-aged and short of funds has moved us and you will get your wish for that 22-room country home, with a view of the ocean Not only that but you get a $2,300 sedan, a complete wardrobe, &c, &c

Father (shutting the radio off angrily)—I want your whole attention son. You are now 13 years old and it is time you got the right perspective It is important that you get a paper route or some little work after school. If he is to get anywhere in life a boy must work and work hard

Radio Voice (from a set upstairs)—Wonderful! Fine! There is only one letter 't' in the word "cat," Willie. Now if you answer correctly the question "For whom was the Woolworth Tower named' you will join the group of 22 American boys and girls who will be sent free to Hollywood to be tested for an important juvenile role in the new movie "The Throat-slitters," with a chance to get a five-year contract in six figures

Father (collapsing)—What za use!

THE man of business is strictly business He understands business He does business and he is full of business. The Common Cold

By TRUMAN TWILL

It strikes us as silly at a time when assorted big shots are grimly determined to do something about atomic energy, man's inhumanity to man and the eternal struggle between the saved and the damned that nothing whatever is being done about the common cold

The boys have broken their fingernails and snagged their teeth on the common cold so often they prefer to tackle something they can spar with indefinitely under the illusion they might possibly win The common cold has 'em licked

But not everybody is willing to run away from this challenge to humanity's right to survive This writer, desperate from lack of oxygen during the last eight days, is still fighting for a better deal for the common man and has prepared a master plan for doing something about the common cold.

1. Passage of laws at all levels of government making the common cold a crime.

2. Adoption of resolutions at all levels of government declaring it to be the will of various legislative bodies that certain remedial measures be taken against the prevalence of colds, said measures to consist of the following

A. No person catching or in possession of a cold to be permitted to wear anything but sleeping attire and a warm bathrobe, with the intent of keeping all such persons from appearing in public

B. No employes to be permitted to bring pressure of any nature to bear on employes catching or in possession of a cold to show up at work until they feel like it.

C. No person convalescing from a cold to be permitted to return to work without proper certification by competent authority, preferably an authority who will advise staying at home three more days and getting a good rest.

D No person wanting to work in violation of these restrictions to be regarded as a hero or a heroine because of stubborn refusal to admit that a common cold is a worthy antagonist, subject to the rule that he who wants to live another day knows when he's licked and gives up before he gets carried away on a shutter.

We feel sure this would rout the common cold—as sure as anyone can be who hasn't had any air to breathe for the last eight days As someone just snarled, "The least the guy could do would be to stay out of sight! Look at him"

Students Cotton to Their Neighbors

By The Associated Press

WINTERVILLE, Ga.—School students here are finding their Thursday good neighbor policy pays. Every Thursday afternoon a group does working clothes and helps pick cotton in some neighboring farmer's field. In one recent afternoon, 32 youngsters harvested 1,200 pounds of seed cotton. They are paid regular rates for their work besides competing for theater tickets to the one picking the most cotton.

AREA TRAFFIC REPORT GIVEN

State Highway Figures Indicate Accident "Leveling Off" During 1947.

Report for January and February of District A of the state highway patrol, covering 34 northwestern counties of Ohio, indicates that traffic accidents will level off during 1947, after a 71 per cent gain in 1946 over 1945.

There were 244 accidents in January this year, compared to 158 in January 1946, but in February the total dropped to 152, 40 less than the 1946 February total.

There have been 20 traffic deaths so far this year, compared to 18 for the first two months of 1946. Death increase in 1946 over 1945 was 41 per cent. Injuries total 310 this year, only six more than during the comparable period last year. Injuries in 1946 showed a 41 per cent increase over 1945.

However, in Marion district, which includes Marion county and half of the adjoining counties, 19 persons have already died in traffic this year; in 1946 no fatality occurred until April 19.

Arrests in District A are up somewhat over last year, 585 persons being cited in January and February 1947 compared to 441 during the same period in 1946. Written warnings more than doubled this year, reflecting a policy of the state patrol requiring motorists to keep their cars in a safe state of repair. During the first two months of this year 2,496 written warnings have been issued; last year 1,005 were issued during January and February.

The report includes the following information covering 1946: motor vehicles recovered, 91; airplane crashes investigated, nine; school buses inspected, 1,463; misdemeanor arrests, 4,014; felony arrests, 109; telephone calls, 45,368; personal callers, 13,509; safety talks given, 269; miles traveled by motorcycles, 74,533; miles traveled by patrol cars, 1,248,817.

10,150 VETS FROM 3 STATES IN HOSPITALS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 18—Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky had 10,150 veterans in veterans administration hospitals, homes and VA contract hospitals on March 1—an all-time high, the VA branch office here reported today.

Since Jan. 1, the total in the three states has increased 1,260, the VA said. In Ohio the number has increased from 4,005 to 4,356 in the two-month period, with 4,111 of the veterans in Ohio's four VA hospitals and 245 in contract hospitals. The hospital at Chillicothe had 2,129 patients March 1; there were 942 at Dayton, 894 at Crile in Cleveland and 146 at Brecksville.

The VA was furnishing hospitalization for 2,036 veterans in Kentucky on March 1 compared to 1,650 on Jan. 1. Kentucky VA hospitals listed these patient totals March 1: Lexington 773, Louisville 556, Outwood 318.

DURANT

a petition in bankruptcy listing assets of $250 against liabilities of $814,231.

To offset his first loss of General Motors in 1910, he formed the Chevrolet company, and in 1918 brought it into the big combination. Bereft of control a second time in 1920, he launched Durant Motors Inc., retired from it gracefully in January, 1929 and less than a year later saw virtually all his immense holdings in industrial stocks wiped out in the Wall street crash.

Always an optimist, he rode to financial heights with successive "boom" eras, refused to sell his enterprises short and when crashes came, poured his money into the market in vain attempts to stave off the inevitable. Thus his "croppers" came in panic years, 1910, 1920 and 1930. He picked up quickly from the effects of the first two, but the prolonged depression that followed the 1929-30 crash balked him.

Sold His Home

In September, 1938, in an effort to raise cash, he auctioned his 37-room residence and its furnishings at Deal, N. J. The sale brought $111,778.90, including $44,000 for the house. Durant said the furnishings alone had been appraised at almost $300,000 a year earlier.

He disliked tobacco intensely, and was an open foe of liquor. In July, 1928, he offered a prize of $25,000 for "the most practicable plan to make the 18th amendment effective." The contest drew 23,108 entries. It was won by Major Chester P. Mills, former federal prohibition administrator for New York.

Durant was born at Boston, Mass., December 8, 1861. His father was William Clark Durant and his mother the former Rebecca Folger Crapo, daughter of H. H. Crapo, governor of Michigan from 1864 to 1868. The family moved to Flint, Mich., and the son was educated in the public schools there.

The Durants were moderately well off, but at 17 William quit school to work for his grandfather, who owned a general store and mill. The pay was 75 cents a day.

From the mill he went "on the road," selling first patent medicines made by a Flint druggist, and then cigars. His sales mounted but he disliked the tobacco shops he had to visit and turned to real estate and insurance in Flint.

WALDO K. OF P. MEETING

The knight rank will be conferred on a class of candidates at a meeting of Whetstone Lodge No. 718, Knights of Pythias of Waldo, Wednesday night. The rank of esquire was conferred on three candidates at a meeting held last Wednesday night. Visitors were present from Green Camp.

ELECTRIC INSULATION DESTROYED AT HOME

Pennies in Fuses Cause Fire on E. Farming St.

Insulation was burned off all electric wiring at the home of LeRoy Parish of 490 East Farming street yesterday at 4:30 p. m., when the line was overloaded as a result of pennies being placed behind fuses in the house, firemen reported.

Fire broke out only in a partition on the back porch. The house will have to be entirely rewired, however, and electric service has been shut off until it is, Chief Owen A. Sifritt said. He warned against by-passing fuses by such devices, pointing out that a fuse protects an electric system the same as a safety valve protects a steam boiler.

FARM LEGISLATION TOPIC OF MEETING

Discussed by Directors of County Bureau.

Farm legislation pending in the state legislature was discussed by directors of the Marion county Farm Bureau in a meeting last night in the Farm Bureau offices on Park boulevard.

Lloyd Calhoun, Farm Bureau organizational director, reported on a meeting of Farm Bureau delegates and state legislators held in Columbus, March 11. Delegates from 12 counties were present and each group met with their own representative.

Kenneth A. Robinson, Marion county state representative, told the Marion delegation he was interested in hearing from farmers regarding their stand on any particular bill. Most of the bills still are in committees, he said.

Mr. Calhoun also presented a report to directors on a survey being conducted in Marion county on telephone service. Of the 100 questionnaires returned, he said a majority of the rural residents wanted the toll system abolished.

Plans for continuation of the membership drive were discussed. Farm Bureau membership in the county now stands at 600, with a goal of 725. No date has been set for closing the campaign.

A delegation from the Co-Operative made final arrangements to attend a meeting of the Ohio Council of Co-Operatives to be held in Columbus Thursday. Co-Operative board members who will attend are Allen Longacre, Harry Laucher, Arthur Isler, H. H. Berlinger and Robert Denzer. Mr. Calhoun and V. F. Shroats, Co-Operative manager, also will attend.

DISASTER will strike this year!

In 65 years, the American Red Cross has relieved over 4,000 disasters of all kinds. Last year, alone, it assisted more than 126,000 people battered by catastrophe.

This year, the suffering and misery will again be great when new calamities strike down additional thousands. But come what may, you can depend on this:

As always, the Red Cross will be there to relieve the toll . . . ease the pain . . . soften the suffering.

Emergency aid for the injured . . . food and shelter for the homeless . . . help in restoring homes according to need. These services—and many more—the Red Cross will provide to all needy sufferers regardless of creed or race, young or old.

This vital work requires money—lots of it. Your support is urgently needed. So please give—and give generously—to your Red Cross chapter. There is no worthier cause!

GIVE—so your RED CROSS can carry on!

Social Affairs

DINNER at 6:30 o'clock will be followed by a musical program when the Marion Association of University Women meet tonight at Hotel Harding. The program will be presented by the music department of Ohio Wesleyan university.

DR. F. R. MANN, who with Mrs. Mann recently returned from an extensive tour of the southwest, including New Orleans and Mexico City, was a guest speaker at a meeting of the Womans club Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. David W. Evans of West Center street. He talked informally on the places visited and showed interesting items of jewelry, pottery and other articles collected on the tour. Mrs. Mann and Mr. Evans were guests. A meeting March 24 will be with Mrs. LeRoy V. Adlard north of Marion.

ACTIVITIES at the Federation Home will include a series of luncheons arranged by the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs for the pleasure of the members and their guests. The opening event will be a luncheon at 1 o'clock Friday and members may invite guests. The members may make up their own parties or not as they wish and reservations are to be made with the club presidents not later than Wednesday. The home will be open to the members for the afternoon and if cards are to be played, these are to be provided by the players.

Mrs. C. M. Lindsey was hostess to the Sesame club Monday afternoon at the Federation home. Roll call was answered on the subject, "This Amazing America." A paper, "Twentieth Century Biography and History," was read by Mrs. E. C. Garver, and Mrs. Earl Thomas presented a paper on "Twentieth Century Poets." Another paper, "California's Great Central Valley," was prepared by Mrs. L. S. Irey and read by Mrs. Harry Topliff. The next meeting will be March 31 with Mrs. Earl Andrews of 827 Forest street.

The Marion Art club met Friday evening at the Federation Home with Miss Philomen Gregg as hostess. For the program hour, Mrs. U. A. Nystrom presented two papers on the lives and works of two women artists, Marian Greenwood and Doris Lee. The paper concerning Doris Lee was prepared by Mrs. Paul Knauss. The next meeting will be March 27 with Mrs. Mark Bowe as hostess.

Miss Philomen Gregg was hostess for a meeting of the Marion Art club Friday evening at the Federation Home. For the program hour Mrs. U. A. Nystrom discussed Marion Greenwood and Doris Lee and illustrated her talk with pictures. Mrs. Delmar Hamilton presided for a business session during which the members indorse Senate Bill No. 40, which would provide increased salaries for school teachers. A meeting March 27 will be with Mrs. C. O. Smith of South Prospect street.

Mrs. James Burgess, a recent bride, was an honor guest when Misses Janet Stein and Betty Short entertained with a shower at the home of the former on Elm street, Friday evening. Mrs. Burgess, who was Miss Marjorie Beringer before her marriage, was presented a corsage of pink and white camellias. She found her shower gifts, wrapped in pink and white, caught to ribbons showered from the stairway to a candlelighted table. Present with the honor guest were Mrs. Esther Burgess, Mrs. Paul Beringer, Mrs. Glen Beringer, Mrs. Mabel Fleicher, Mrs. Gilbert Thibaut, Mrs. Elmore Chivington, Mrs. Walter Hoffman, Mrs. Joe Frisini, Miss Rosemary Frisini, Mrs. Wilbur Short and Mrs. A. A. Stein.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Berry Jr., who were recently married, were complimented with a kitchen shower Friday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Lester Berry entertained at their home at 523 Thompson street. The evening was spent socially with contest awards going to Mrs. Sylvester McClaskey, Mrs. Commodore Miller, Mrs. D. W. McClaskey and Mrs. Berry Jr. The gifts were arranged on a table centered with a bowl of tulips. Refreshments of ice cream and cake in Mrs. Berry's colors of pink and white were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Mary Rothenhausler.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Small, Mrs. Sylvester McClaskey, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Berry, Mrs. Elnora Benson, Mr. and Mrs. C. Miller, Mrs. Pearl Clifton, Mrs. Clifford George, Mrs. Jacob McClaskey, Mrs. Mary Rothenhauser, and Mrs. Juanita Hatch, all of Marion, and Mrs. W. E. McClaskey and Mrs. D. W. McClaskey of near Marion.

Mrs. Berry before her marriage March 8 was Miss Alice Marie McClaskey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob McClaskey of Lee street.

Mr. and Mrs. Miles Nelson of Mt. Morris, Mich. were guests recently at the Harrison Kinnamon home east of Caledonia. Mrs. Nelson is a niece of Mrs. Ella Kinnamon.

Miss Dorothy Romoser asked 40 of her friends for an after dinner coffee Saturday evening to meet Miss Georgia Joanne Kraner, a bride-elect of this month. Guests called between 7 and 9 o'clock at Ringer's Inn where they were served from a table laid with a white Irish linen cloth and centered with rose tulips and greenery and lighted with tapers in rose and green, Miss Kraner's colors. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Warren Rowley of Toledo, Mrs. M. L. Daugherty, Mrs. Cecil Baldauf and Mrs. Luella McDonald. Miss Kraner, who will become the bride of James Strickland of Portsmouth, Va., on March 29, was presented a gift.

Mrs. Belle C. Ballenger of 249 Homer street left last week for a six-week visit in St. Petersburg and Pensacola, Fla., and St. Louis, Mo.

Founder's Day To Be Observed By Sorority Chapter

MISS RHEA KING was hostess to Eta chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma society, Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Troy McClure on the Somerlot road. During a business meeting plans were made for the annual founder's day dinner on April 26 and Miss Sophia Mack, Miss Esther Williamson and Miss Mildred Little reviewed the revised constitution. The founder's day dinner will be held at Hotel Harding and at this time a joint installation of officers of Iota, Kappa, Lambda and Eta chapters will be held.

A report of the Central Ohio district conclave held recently at Columbus as given by Miss Margaret Topliff, president, and Miss Esther Williamson, who represented the local chapter. The state president, Miss Margaret Boyd of Steubenville, was a guest speaker.

Hobbies was the program theme. Miss Catherine Thew played "Tennessee Dreams," by Earl H. Coffee and the members gave short talks on their hobbies and also had exhibits of various collections. An original skit by Miss Linda Willauer closed the program.

Miss Grace Wingett and Miss Mildred Little presided in the dining room, where refreshments in keeping with a St. Patrick's day theme were served from a table centered with jonquils and lighted with candles.

Roecker, Foraker Vows Spoken In Church Wedding

Miss Patricia Foraker, daughter of Mrs. W. B. Nagel of 186 Boone avenue, became the bride Saturday of Daniel Roecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Roecker of 184 Hane avenue. The double ring ceremony was read at 7:30 o'clock in the evening in the Emanuel Lutheran church by the pastor, Rev. M. E. Hollensen. The custom of closed church was observed. The altar was decorated with two large baskets of white stocks, palms and lighted candles in candelabra.

Preceding the ceremony a program of nuptial music was given by Mrs. William Ackerman, organist, and Mrs. Lloyd Mautz, soloist, Mrs. Ackerman's selections included "Schubert's Serenade," "Through the Years," "Because," "Always," "Thine Alone," and the traditional wedding marches. Mrs. Mautz sang "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride, given in marriage by her step-father, W. B. Nagel, was attired in a white wine suit with a blue hat and blouse. With this she combined black accessories. She carried an orchid corsage with white streamers. Her only attendant, Mrs. Frank Louck, wore a gray suit with black and white accessories and carried a corsage of white carnations.

Serving as best man was Frank Louck, and ushers were Fred Forrey and Noble Hollaway. The candles were lighted by Miss Catherine Nagel and Miss June Roecker. Miss Nagel was attired in a blue suit and Miss Roecker wore a rose-colored suit.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Nagel chose a blue suit with which she combined pink and brown accessories. Mrs. Roecker wore a gray suit with black accessories.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 85 guests was held in the church parlors. The bride's table was centered with a tiered wedding cake and blue and white candles in crystal holders.

Mrs. Roecker was graduated from Harding High school in 1946 and has been employed in the office of the Marion Power Shovel Co. Mr. Roecker, a graduate of Harding High school with the class of 1945, served with the U. S. Army two years and was in college at Indiana university part of that time. He is now enrolled at Ohio State university in Columbus and is studying business administration. The couple will make their home in Columbus for the present.

Out-of-town guests were Miss Beatrice Miller of Toledo, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Cleveland and daughter, Barbara, of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. K. N. Nagel, Mrs. T. W. Smith and daughter, Gloria and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Ryder all of Portsmouth, Miss Isabelle Stengel of Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Seitz of Shelby, Karl Sheldon and Miss Martha Hunsnell of Kenton, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Bates of Cincinnati, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Williams, Lowell Ralston and Miss Virginia Ramer, all of Columbus.

CORRECTION

In an announcement of the marriage of Mrs. Florence Bircher to Lowell Davis which appeared in The Star Saturday night, the name of Mrs. Bircher's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Allen of 378 East Farming street, was incorrectly given as Mr. and Mrs. Miller.

PROPOSES TAX EXEMPTION

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 18—A $300 tax exemption for persons who pay the burial expenses of dependents was proposed in the house yesterday by Rep. Feighan (D-Ohio).

Weddings

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Ann Dickens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dickens of Centerville, Texas, and Earl E. Benzler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Benzler of six and one-half miles south of Marion, Sunday afternoon. The double ring ceremony was read at 1:30 o'clock by Rev. Wilbur R. Budke, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, at the parsonage. The bride wore a street length dress in a seashell shade with brown accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of Tennessee bells. The bridegroom's parents accompanied them for the ceremony. Later they plan to visit the southern states and upon their return will make their home with the bridegroom's parents. The bride has been employed in a plant manufacturing men's clothing. Mr. Benzler, is a veteran of World War II, served three years in the armed forces, a part of which was in the European theater. He is engaged in farming. The wedding took place on the anniversary of the bridegroom's grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. George Benzler. The bridegroom's parents entertained friends at informal receptions Sunday and Monday evenings.

MORRAL CLUB MEETS

Mrs. Princess Hite of north of Brush Ridge entertained members of the Treasure Hunter's club of Morral Thursday, at her home. The meeting, in charge of Mrs. Chester Lust, opened with group singing, and devotions by Mrs. Samuel Foos. Roll call was answered on the subject, "The gadget I could least resist." Mrs. William Pride read a paper on "Curtains, Drapes and Windows," prepared by Mrs. Ronald Bibler and Mrs. Thelma Myers presented an article on "Accidents in the Home." It was voted to give contributions to the Wyandot and Marion county Red Cross drives, and plans were made for a Mother's day party May 1 at Greenwood Inn. A guessing box was won by Mrs. C. F. Myers. The next meeting will be April 11 at the Wyandot school with Mrs. Catherine Stumbo as hostess and Mrs. Leota Lust as cohostess.

PLAN KENTON MEETING

Plans were made for a meeting at Kenton on April 16 and also for the organization of a ladies' club at a dinner meeting of the Western & Southern Ordinary club Saturday evening at the Y. M. C. A. The meeting to organize the women's group will be held April 2. Attending were the company's underwriters and their wives. Covers were placed for Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Jarow, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Truka, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Norris, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bingham, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Stoner, Mr. and Mrs. Boyle Morgan and Mr. and Mrs. C. OFFERS INDUCEMENT FOR ENLISTMENTS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 18—An Ohioan suggests that Uncle Sam could solve the problem of adequate manpower for the armed forces by offering inducements attractive enough to interest the country's youngsters.

Rep. Burke (R-Ohio), made the plan public today without disclosing who sent it to him. He gave this outline of the suggestion:

"The plan is based on 100 per cent voluntary enlistments for those over 18 years of age and only after their graduation from high school. Scholarship opportunities would be offered as an inducement for their enlistment.

"Enlistment periods would be set at 12, 18 or 24 months, the choice to be made by the individual."

While pay would be at the usual service rate, each person would receive after discharge $75 a month for a time equal to twice his or her enlistment, provided the dischargee enrolled in an educational institution.

MINE WORKERS ACT TO RAISE FINE CASH

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, March 18—Rank and file members of the AFL-United Mine Workers today were reported quietly raising money to pay at least a part of the $710,000 in fines imposed on the union and its leader, John L. Lewis, in the injunction case.

John P. Busarello, president of UMW district 5 (Pittsburgh), said nine local unions with about 12,000 members voted to assess each member $1. The district has about 24,000 miners.

James Hughes, president of district 3 (Greensburg, Pa.) said several locals in his area took similar action and that one, Hutchinson local, with about 400 members, voted to help pay the fines but fixed no specific sum.

In district 4 (Uniontown), President William Hynes said "the boys have been talking" but that no action has been taken.

In West Virginia, two or three Monongalia county locals voted to pay a $1 assessment toward the fines.

The UMW has about 400,000 members in the nation so that if each contributed $1, the total would pay more than half the fines.

Work on Shovel Co. Building Resumed

Construction work on an unloading dock and storage room at the Marion Power Shovel Co. has been resumed after the project, started last September, was halted because of unfavorable weather conditions, company officials reported today.

The building, a two-story concrete and brick structure, will be located on the north end of the machine shop near Center and Davids streets. The building is approximately 10 per cent finished and present plans call for its completion in August.

The structure will be 50 by 100 feet in dimension. The work is being done by the Steward Construction Co.

When completed all small purchase parts will be stored in the building, which also will house a large freight elevator to expedite the movement of material to and from the first and second floors of the machine shop.

Teachers Hear State Leader

HEMSLEY TOPS LIST IN LIQUOR EXAMS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 18—Belford Hemsley of Glouster, who is not an employe of the state liquor department, topped 794 persons who took a state civil service examination for state liquor inspector.

Hemsley had a grade of 94.34 out of a possible 100. This, plus 20 per cent added because he is a war veteran, gave him a total of 112.20 the liquor department announced today.

A total of 497 passed the examination and will be considered for appointment to jobs of liquor inspector, which are being placed under civil service for the first time. The department's 150 inspectors heretofore have been provisional (90-day) appointees.

Only 25 inspectors were among the top 165 passing the examination, Chief Inspector William J. Kelch reported. Of these, three were agents-in-charge

The agents in charge were George Cermak of Cleveland, head of the Akron enforcement district, who placed second with 112.06; Floyd Gable head of the Cleveland district, 13th with 106.98, and Don Geyer, head of the Sandusky district, 147th with 93.39.

Edmund E. Schuster of Perrysburg, a former agent, tied with Cermak for second with 112.06, Fred S. Emery of Sandusky, a liquor agent, was third with 109.80, and Lester Lehman of South Euclid, who is not an agent, was fourth with 109.23.

Housing Ready For More Vet Families

Four more veterans and their families have been notified dwelling units are available for them at the housing project near Lincoln park. They are expected to move in tomorrow, according to Charles E. Messenger, operator-maintenance man.

Three of the GI families include two children and the other includes one.

The veterans are Robert Caldwell of 897 Cheney avenue, John Kinsler of 340 Windsor street, Edgar Mackan of 198 Lincoln avenue and Louis Long of 540 Park street

The four families bring the total at the GI settlement to 14. The project will eventually include 50 dwelling units, Clarence Taylor, contractor's representative, said today he expects to have more of the five-room quarters ready next week. Further progress, he said, now depends on the availability of plumbing labor.

TROOPS IN BRITAIN BATTLING FLOODS

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 18 — Britain mobilized fresh troops and volunteers today to rescue thousands of marooned families and bolster sagging river banks in more than a half a century

Murky waters lapped over thousands of square miles of southern England, isolating villages, snarling transport, spreading vast property damage and leaving families stranded in upper floors of homes with dwindling stocks of food and water.

Rains fell through the night but the steady rise of rivers, some of them six feet above the flood stage, appeared to have been checked. The air ministry forecast mild weather with scattered showers.

Floods were reported from Belgium and Holland, but elsewhere in Europe weather conditions were generally favorable

Murphy said the United States considered the question of small-nation participation of top priority and was not satisfied to let the matter drop and would continue to press for it strongly.

The British had suggested that all of the small nations be represented on the four committees and their sub-committees Murphy suggested as a compromise that nations with a direct interest in a particular problem be placed on the committee concerned.

On the Austrian peace treaty, the British suggested that the London agreement to withdraw troops from Austria within 90 days of the signing of the pact be amended to state that they should withdraw between the time the treaty is signed and the date of ratification

Earlier, there were renewed indications that Prime Minister Stalin was taking an active, but behind-the-scenes, interest in the critical world problems confronting the foreign ministers.

PAROLE DENIED MAN "CLEARED" OF CRIME

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 18—The Ohio pardon and parole commission today continued until February, 1951, the case of Julius Krause, who has served 16 years in prison for a Canton holdup slaying in which he was absolved by a fellow prisoner.

Former Gov Frank J Lausche had commuted Krause's degree murder conviction to second degree, making him eligible for a parole hearing.

The commission, however, "flopped him over" without comment.

Krause was convicted of slaying Charles Bartlett, 81-year-old grocer, in a $54 robbery Oct. 20, 1930 Another man, Labanna Rohrbach, also was convicted and given a life sentence He later died in prison of tuberculosis.

In August, 1940, Krause walked away from a prison honor camp, went to Canton and prevailed upon a third man, Curtis Kuemerle, to make a confession to the Stark prosecutor. Kuermerle was given a 10-to-25 year term for manslaughter, but neither Stark county or state parole officials ever appeared convinced that his confession cleared Krause.

U. S. TO TAKE STAND IN RUBBER STRIKE

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., March 18—Federal Labor Conciliator Paul Fuller announced today he was prepared to meet with company and union representatives and offer them "all possible assistance" in an effort to avert a strike of 100,000 CIO-United Rubber Workers set for Sunday midnight.

Fuller, resident conciliator specially assigned to disputes in the rubber industry, said he expected to contact both the union and the "Big Four" companies and discuss the negotiations which collapsed here Sunday after two weeks sessions.

The negotiations were broken off with the companies—Goodyear, Goodrich, Firestone and U. S. Rubber—offering a wage boost of 10 cents an hour. The union, which originally asked 26 cents had reduced its demand to 18 cents and had dropped its request for a night wage bonus of 20 cents an hour.

A strike would affect 42 plants in 20 states. The companies last year produced approximately 70,000,000 tires, a peak production compared with 53,000,000 in the best prewar years.

International Union President L. S. Buckmaster said it still was possible that a settlement could be reached before the deadline and asked union members in the "Big Four" not to walk out prematurely Members employed by other companies were asked to remain at work.

LIONS CLUB MEMBER TO VISIT S. AMERICA

Will Meet Clubs There While on Business Trip.

A report on the current attendance contest being conducted by the Marion Lions club was given by Robert Axe, chairman of the attendance committee, in the weekly luncheon meeting of the club Monday at Hotel Harding. He reported that the team captained by Forest Sharrock is leading the six teams in the contest.

Announcement was made that Robert Maynard, a Lion member and export manager for the Osgood Co., is leaving next week on a trip to South American countries on a field survey for the Osgood and General Excavator companies. While on the trip, Mr. Maynard is planning to visit Lions clubs and extend greetings of the Marion club as a gesture of the good will that exists between Lions clubs of Pan America and other countries. During the last year, several representatives of South American countries have visited the Marion club.

For the program, moving pictures of the 1946 baseball world series were shown. Joseph O'Connor was in charge.

Guests of the club were Frank Best of New York City, W. F. Lynch, D. M. Ray and A. J. Schimmel, all of Cleveland, Craig Blunt of Springfield, and Marion Wiant, Earl Reed, William Wilcox and Don Williamson all of Marion.

Letters Given St. Mary School Athletes at St. Patrick Dinner

The traditional St. Patrick's day banquet at which athletic letters are annually awarded to members of St. Mary High school football and basketball teams was held Monday night at Hotel Harding with an attendance of approximately 150. Seventeen boys received football letters and eight received basketball letters presented by Gene Fetter, coach. The banquet was followed by dancing.

Dr. A. J. Wagner was general chairman for the celebration, sponsored by St. Mary Booster club, and Robert Axe, president of the club, served as toastmaster.

A large white banner with "The Fighting Irish" in green letters and decorated with shamrocks, greeted the guests as they entered the ballroom and the tables were gay in emerald green. Panels of green extended the full length of the tables and programs were in the form of shamrocks. Favors were green baskets decorated with shamrocks and high hats and filled with green and white candies. Dinner music was by Ed Beech, pianist who also accompanied the group for the singing of Irish songs led by Don Sherwood.

Speaker Views World Situation

Speaker for the evening was Rev. William J. Spickerman, pastor of St. Mary Catholic church. After congratulating the teams, coach, parents and supporters of the parish athletics Rev. Spickerman turned to the seriousness of world affairs today and America's position in the picture. He paid tribute to St. Patrick and the loyalty of the Irish race to their religion and country and expressed the hope that the patriotism and inspiration of Ireland's patron saint and the people of that country would be repeated in the hearts and actions of the world.

Despite the warnings of writers and speakers familiar with world situations, it is hard to remember, in our own land of plenty, that it is time for people to awaken and begin thinking correctly and that the ghost of Europe is knocking at our front and back doors, he said. In discussing the strategy of Russia, he pointed to Greece as merely the last place of struggle. France collapsed in 1940, England is weakened, there are only two great powers, United States and Russia and today the world is divided into two camps, Christianity and Communism, he added. He expressed the belief that Russia does not want war and that her leaders are afraid of us.

Dr. Wagner congratulated the teams on their work this year and expressed his appreciation of the support given the team, directors and coaches and asked for the same loyalty during the coming season. In presenting the letter awards Coach Fetter praised the work of the teams and the boys individually and spoke enthusiastically regarding next season's teams.

In Lettermen's List

Coach Fetter was presented a gift from the teams by Captains Bray and Tobin.

The blessing was asked by Rev. Spickerman and the benediction was by Rev. James J. Carroll, assistant pastor of St. Mary church.

Following the dinner and program there was dancing until midnight with music by Glenn Johnson and his orchestra.

Delegate, Alternate Appointments Made

Delegates and alternates to the state and national reunions were named at a meeting of the Auxiliary to the Marion Navy club Monday night in the clubrooms. Mrs. Evelyn Reynolds and Mrs. Valeria Haughn were named delegates and Mrs. Esther Obenour, commandant and Mrs. Sara Pickett, were chosen alternates to the Ohio Squadron reunion April 12 and 13 at Steubenville, and Mrs. Haughn and Mrs. Obenour were chosen delegates and Mrs. Betty Whittington and Mrs. Esther Uline alternated to the National reunion at Milwaukee June 6 and 7. Mrs. Eva Pierce was appointed chairman for a rummage sale to be held Friday at the clubrooms.

DR. R. C. CAMPBELL TO PRACTICE HERE

Ex-Army Captain To Be Associated with Dr. C. W. Smith.

Dr. Robert C. Campbell, formerly of Pennsylvania, announced today he will be associated with Dr. Clare W. Smith in the practice of general medicine. Their office is in the Marion building.

Dr. Campbell will take over general practice within a few months as Dr. Smith specializes in ear, nose and throat diseases.

Dr. Campbell served two and one-half years in the Army medical corps and was discharged as a captain after duty in the European theater. He was with the 80th Field Hospital in Germany when the war ended.

Since his release he has assisted a general practitioner in a small community in Pennsylvania. He was graduated from Jefferson Medical School in Philadelphia and interned at Mercy hospital at Pittsburgh. He attended undergraduate school at Pennsylvania State university.

Dr. Campbell is married and has a son. He expects to move his family here when living quarters can be obtained.

ANGUS CATTLE BREEDERS ORGANIZED IN MARION CO.

Lawrence Weiss of Pleasant Twp. Elected President.

A new farm organization for the promotion of Angus cattle in Marion county was formed last night when 15 Angus breeders met in the office of County Agricultural Agent Arthur H. Smith.

The group is known as the Marion County Angus association. Its purpose will be to discuss Angus cattle and breeding problems among its members. Officers elected were: Lawrence Weiss of Pleasant township, president; Oscar Murphy of Salt Rock township, vice president; Earl Augenstein of Waldo township, secretary-treasurer.

Three directors named were Ellis Dupray of Pleasant township, Charles T. Gillespie of Montgomery township and Clifford Strine of Claridon township.

Several of the group plan to attend the state Angus breeders' meeting at Ohio State university in Columbus Thursday in connection with Farmers' Week now being held there.

Next meeting will be April 14, when a constitution for the organization will be discussed. Charter members estimate there are approximately 30 Angus breeders in Marion county who are eligible to join the association.

Officers Elected By U.C.T. Council

V. M. Dutton was elected senior counselor and E. H. Huggins was chosen secretary for the 27th year at a meeting of Marion Council No. 129, United Commercial Travelers, Saturday night at Hotel Marion.

Other officers elected were: H. H. Hartpence, junior counselor; W. B. Curry, past counselor; L. B. Davis, conductor; Frank Collins, page; B. A. Davis, sentinel; Ray Bonnette, chaplain; W. B. Curry, representative and G. L. Rush, alternate, to council meeting at Youngstown the second week in June; D. L. Clark and Ray Bonnette, members of the executive committee for two years. The officers will be installed at the next meeting April 19.

WALTER S. JACKSON

JUDGE JACKSON ON MARION PROGRAM

Speaks on Aaron Burr at Presbyterian Men's Meeting.

Guest speaker at the March meeting of the Presbyterian Men's club dinner meeting Monday night at the First Presbyterian church was Walter S. Jackson of Lima, presiding judge of the Third district court of appeals.

Judge Jackson, who is active in bar association work throughout the state, gave the story of the life of Aaron Burr, who was associated with early American history. He spoke of how Burr attempted to create a monarchy in this country and was then tried for treason, and also told of other details concerning his participation in government work. Judge Jackson has made an extensive study of the background concerning Aaron Burr.

John K. Bartram, president of the club, was in charge of the meeting.

TOLEDO LABOR PLAN IS PROPOSED HERE

CIO Group Votes In Favor of Move.

Plans for the establishment of a labor management committee for Marion industries patterned after the Toledo plan, for the peaceful settlement of labor disputes, were outlined in a monthly meeting of the Amalgamated Local 790, UAW (CIO) Monday night in Steelworkers' hall on East Center street.

The group, which includes approximately 80 union representatives, voted unanimously for the establishment of such a committee. Local 790 has membership in the Universal Cooler division of the International Detrola Corp., McMillen Feed Mills Inc. of Ohio, the Isaly Dairy Co., and the Farm and Home Lumber Co. of Caledonia. The Caledonia firm was not represented at Monday night's meeting.

An outline of how the labor-management committee would function was presented by Edward J. Duck, international representative of the UAW in the Marion area. Mr. Duck told the group the committee would be made up of an equal number of representatives from the union, management and the general public. When a labor dispute developed it would be referred to the committee for consideration, Mr. Duck stated.

The proposal will be submitted to local industries for their consideration after additional information regarding the plan has been secured, Mr. Duck said.

Husband Convicted On Trespass Charge

James A. Thomas, 52, of 181 Dix avenue was found guilty Friday in municipal court on a charge of trespassing, fined $25 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the Columbus workhouse. The charge was brought against him by his divorced wife, Mrs. Pauline Thomas of 288 East Mark street, after Thomas allegedly broke down the door of her house and entered. Thomas had just finished a six months sentence to the workhouse on a similar charge.

Yanks Willing To Give Up Five For Vernon and Nat Teammate

By The Associated Press

ORLANDO, Fla., March 18 — Speculation was renewed today over the possibility of Mickey Vernon, American league batting champion, and his hard-hitting Washington Senator teammate outfielder Stan Spencer being traded to the New York Yankees.

Manager Bucky Harris of the Yanks announced that he would confer with President Clark Griffith of the Nats within a few days.

Asked if Vernon still impressed him as Harris had indicated the first sacker did while the Yanks were at San Juan, P. R., Harris smiled and nodded in the affirmative.

It is believed that the Yanks are willing to part with Billy Johnson, Johnny Lindell, Steve Souchock or Jack Phillips and perhaps a pitcher in an effort to land Vernon from the Senators.

Other training camp notes:

Fort Lauderdale, Fla. — After watching his scrubs take a 8-7 setback from their Milwaukee farmhands yesterday, Boston Brave Manager Billy Southworth will whip his regulars back into action for today's tilt with the Philadelphia Athletics.

Miami Beach, Fla.—The Pittsburgh Pirates continued to cut their squad today by optioning pitchers Lee Howard and Jim Walsh to Indianapolis of the American Association. Yesterday, the Pirates released outfielder Stan Wentzel to Indianapolis.

Lakeland, Fla. — The Detroit Tigers, who used five hurlers yesterday in dropping a 14-inning decision to the New York Yankees, had to scrape for pitchers to send against the Boston Red Sox today. Freddie Hutchinson, who has complained recently of a sore arm, drew the starting assignment against the Boston Red Sox.

St. Petersburg, Fla. — Rookie Tommy Glaviano, subbing at third for veteran Whitey Kurowski who is still recuperating from an arm operation, has been playing a stellar role in the Cards' conquest of the exhibition circuit. As the Red Birds defeated the Reds, 6-3 yesterday. Glaviano started a Card attack with a double to right center.

Pasadena, Calif. — Manager Charley Grimm and General Manager Jim Gallagher of the Chicago Cubs have scheduled a meeting within the next two days to decide who is doomed to the minors.

Panama City — Jackie Robinson, Negro infielder playing for the Brooklyn Dodgers' Montreal farm club, continues his bid for a major league berth. The 27-year-old Royal star, whose chances of making the grade at second or third with the Dodgers are practically nil, played first base against the Brooks yesterday and handled 13 chances without a miscue and collected two of the Royals' six hits as the two teams battled to a 1-1 tie.

Pasadena, Calif. — Both Dario Lodigiani and Joe Haynes of the Chicago White Sox had their right elbows X-rayed yesterday. Lodigiani has been troubled since the start of spring training, while Haynes developed a kink during recent workouts.

U.S.G.A. Revises Rules On Amateur Standing

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 18 — The United States Golf Association has announced revision of the amateur code to give for the first time a positive definition of an amateur golfer.

The ruling, which becomes effectively immediately, reads: "An amateur golfer is one who plays the game solely as a non-remunerative or non-profit-making sport."

The new code provides for forfeiture of amateur status if a player accepts a prize (1) "of unusual money value," (2) "of a nature making it readily convertible into cash," and (3) "an order on a mercantile establishment which fails to limit the purpose to which the order may be put."

Purses in Troy Races June 7-28 Hit $80,000

By The Associated Press

BELLEFONTAINE, O., March 18 — Ray Hennesey, secretary of the Troy Harness Racing association, said today stakes and purses for the 19 nights of racing at Miami county fairgrounds at Troy June 7-28 would amount to about $80,000.

Entry lists closed yesterday for the 14 stake events, with purses totaling $18,000. Hennesey said there would be no overnight dashes for less than $400 and every finish would be photographed.

OHIO STATE WINS

By The Associated Press

DALLAS, Tex., March 18 — Ohio State's baseball team blanked Southern Methodist 10 to 0 yesterday, with Dick Magato and Ray Gebhardt hurling two-hit ball for the Bucks. The game was the first for Ohio State in the south since 1941. Pete Perini and lefty Bob Christophel will hurl against Southern Methodist today, and George Spencer will be starting hurler Wednesday in the third game of the series.

MIGHTY KENTUCKY IN LATE RALLY TO STAND OFF COLLAPSE

Recover After Blowing 19-Point Lead to L.I.U.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 18—It was a sight to see. That is, the virtual collapse of mighty Kentucky against Long Island university in their national invitation basketball tourney game at Madison Square Garden last night.

Regarded as the top collegiate outfit in the United States, the Wildcats from the Bluegrass country blew a 19-point second half lead as L.I.U. put on a thrilling rally that tied the score at 62-all with 35 seconds left.

It is a testimonial to Kentucky's class that two quick baskets by Wah-Wah Jones and Jack Tingle in the remaining 35 seconds gave the Wildcats a 66-62 triumph. Nevertheless for a team like Kentucky to lose a 19-point lead in the second half is tantamount to a collapse.

A successful late rally for Utah that brought the Big Seven conference team a 45-44 triumph over third-seeded Duquesne.

Utah now meets second-seeded West Virginia and Kentucky is paired against North Carolina State in the tourney semi-finals tomorrow (Wednesday) night.

Book Women Wrestlers At Armory Thursday

The weaker sex will give an exhibition of physical prowess at the Armory Thursday night. Mary Weston of Baltimore and June Byers of Birmingham have been signed for a 90 minute two out of three fall match.

In the other main go Rufus Jones of New York and Duke Keomuka of Hawaii, will meet.

A pair of local 100 pounders, Bill Bean and Frank Sloat, will meet in the 10 minute preliminary starting at 8:30.

One hundred and fifty ring side seats will be added to accommodate the crowd expected.

Wisconsin Guard Named Most Valuable

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 18 — All-Big Nine guard Glen Selbo of Wisconsin, completing his last season of collegiate basketball, has been named the most valuable player of the 1946-47 conference season in a poll of league coaches and officials conducted by the Chicago Tribune.

Second in the voting was forward Ralph Hamilton of Indiana who received 16 points. Forward Paul Hoffman of Purdue was third with eight points and guard Ben Schadler of Northwestern, fourth, with seven.

Others on the list of nine candidates — all of whom were first chosen most valuable by their teammates—were forwards Murray Weir of Iowa and Mack Suprunowicz of Michigan; guard Jack Smiley of Illinois, and centers Jim McIntyre of Minnesota and Jack Underman of Ohio State.

National League's Top Meet at Chicago Today

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 18 — The National Basketball league's eight top teams meet tonight in the opening games of the first playoff series.

In the Eastern division, Syracuse will play at Rochester, overall league champion for the second straight year, and Toledo will be at Ft. Wayne. In the Western bracket, Chicago plays at Indianapolis and Oshkosh at Sheboygan for an all-Wisconsin series.

The first round, based on the best three out of five games is scheduled to end March 26.

CLAYTON HEAFNER WINS

By The Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 18 — Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C., today held the first major tournament title of his career and $2,000 as a result of his victory over Lew Worsham of Washington, D. C. The big pro defeated Worsham by three strokes yesterday in a playoff match made necessary when they finished the scheduled 72 holes of the $10,000 Jacksonville Open in a 281 tie.

Lightning in the United States does about $12,000,000 worth of damage to farm buildings every year.

Red Rookie Fights for Job

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., March 18 — Charlie Kress, tall, husky rookie who was with Syracuse of the International league last season, has served notice that he still is very much in the running for the first base assignment with the Cincinnati Reds.

He turned in a very capable performance yesterday at the initial sack while the Reds were dropping a 6-3 decison to the St. Louis Cardinals. In addition to handling eight chances without flaw, he banged out two of his club's eight hits.

The other first base aspirants are Bert Haas, who held the position most of last season, and Ted Kluszewski, ex-Indiana university athletic star who was with Columbia of the South Atlantic league in 1946 — his first year of professional ball. Haas played third base in yesterday's game.

Kress' batting average with Syracuse wasn't too impressive—.261 in 145 games — but he's a handy fellow to have around with men on base, as evidenced by his 10 homers, six triples and 23 doubles—and 80 runs batted in.

The Reds made six miscues yesterday with Claude Corbitt contributing three at shortstop.

The Cards got 10 hits off Joe Beggs, Ken Polivka and Herman Wehmeier. Errv Dusak hit a two-run homer for the cards and Al Lakeman reserve catcher, hit one out of the park for the Redlegs.

SMITTY'S, HARPSTER GIRLS' TEAMS PLAY

Gra-Y Squads To Meet in Preliminary.

As an added attraction to tonight's girls' tournament game at the Y between Smitty's Girls and Harpster Ex-Hi, St. Mary and Greenwood Gra-Y teams will meet in a preliminary exhibition contest at 7:30.

The girls' meet started last Tuesday and will wind up the first Tuesday in April. Smitty's champion in regular league play, posted the first tourney victory dropping Ward Stilson 43 to 15. Harpster finished in the cellar so isn't given much chance of gaining a victory although an upset in tournament play is many times the rule rather than the exception.

The game involving the grade schools may not compare with the grown up brand of basketball but it looks like a natural for tight action.

The schools are currently tied for first place in the eastern section of the Gra-Y league. Each holds a victory over the other gained with less than 30 seconds to go. This game will have no effect on league standings.

Cincinnati Women Take Bowling Lead

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., March 18—Marge O'Brien and Jen Reis of Cincinnati took new leaderships in the state women's bowling tournament over the weekend.

Miss O'Brien's 668, including handicap, was high in the singles, and Miss Reis topped the all-events with 1689 (no handicap).

In the team event, Elyria Furniture placed first with 2906. Other leading scores stood up.

The standings:

JOE LOUIS TO DEFEND TITLE 24TH TIME ON JUNE 26 IN STADIUM

Expected To Meet Winner of Baksi-Woodcock Match.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 18 — Joe Louis will make the 24th defense of his world heavyweight title on June 26 in Yankee Stadium but who the party of the second part will be was still a big question today.

Joe's managers, Marshall Miles and John Roxborough, announced plans yesterday for the Brown Bomber's third postwar championship engagement and at the same time emphasized that this will be the only time he will lay the crown on the line this year.

They virtually ruled out all other potential challengers except the survivor of the oft-postponed meeting between Bruce Woodcock, the British empire champion, and Joe Baksi, the Kulpmont, Pa., coal miner, now scheduled for April 15.

Sports circles in England generally agreed that it is doubtful that Woodcock will meet Louis. Both Woodcock and his manager, Tom Hurst, hedged when asked whether Bruce would make himself available if he got past Baksi.

Former Groundskeeper Good Prospect for Reds

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., March 18 — Ted Kluszewski, who only two years ago was working as ground keeper's helper for 50 cents an hour, may turn out to be the lefthanded power hitter the Cincinnati Reds have been searching for since the departure of Ival Goodman a half dozen years ago.

The 230-pound former Indiana university football and baseball star, despite only one year of professional baseball behind him, has made such a fine impression upon Manager Johnny Neun that he appears, temporarily at least, to have won the regular first base job away from veteran Bert Haas and rookie Charlie Kress.

The big, boyish looking native of Argo, Ill., who bears a striking resemblance to the late Lou Gehrig in appearance, mannerisms, and stance at the plate, has been belting the ball in recent games in a manner reminiscent of the late New York Yankee first baseman.

Tournament Arrangements Irk Coaches with Teams in Play

By FRITZ HOWELL

Ohio Associated Press Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, O., March 18—Odds and ends about the boys in the Ohio high school basketball tournament:

The coaches at yesterday's drawings, when opening game opponents were selected for the Thursday-Friday-Saturday cage carnival, were just a bit irked by some of the arrangements.

Some of the mentors insisted that a slight change made, and that teams eliminated in the first round be allowed to stay, at tournament expense, for the remainder of the schedule. Probably they had peeked at the 1945 figures which showed the state association profited $31,286.53 from the tournaments, and the 1946 total of $46,135.86 which went into the same coffers.

Commissioner H. W. Emswiler said he thought "it could be arranged to take care of the expenses" through the weekend.

The other "beef" was on the number of free tickets, 17, allotted to each coach and team. Some coaches hinted they should be able to bring their reserves, assistant coaches, trainers, etc., in free after battling all the way to the finals—but the 17-ticket figure was still tops when the conversation ended. One mentor said he'd have to buy his wife a ticket so she could "watch me suffer."

Emswiler said the pass list was being held down to assure the greatest possible gate receipts, so that the association could have $50,000 in the till by fall when the association hopes to install its self-administered plan for high school athletes.

Bachman, whose Findlay squad has the best record in class A, and who has been tutoring cagers for 22 years, has called a meeting for Saturday morning at which he hopes to organize an Ohio High School Basketball Coaches association along the lines of the well-intrenched football coaches group.

* * *

If you want to see the Findlay-East Liverpool game Friday night, you'll have to hurry. Each coach took 2,500 tickets for home town fans, and the coliseum at the state fairgrounds has only 5,406 permanent seats. The ducats not taken by the schools go on sale at 3 p. m. Friday on a first come-first served basis.

* * *

Don't sell those class A champion Middletown boys short just because they've dropped six games—for the half-dozen were lost by a total of 15 points. Three were by a single point, one by two ,another by three, and the widest margin was 55-48 at the hands of Columbus South.

* * *

New Knoxville has only 38 boys in school, and 11 are on the basketball squad, including a 14-year-old freshman. Phillipsburg has 48 boys enrolled, Corning 64, and Columbiana 87. East Liverpool, with 645 boys, heads the class A contingent, followed by Middletown with 530, Findlay 450, and Ashtabula 380.

* * *

Proof that the tournament entrants are just boys was offered by the eligibility sheets of the competing teams Of 92 boys named, only two are 19 years old, and only 15 have hit their 18th year. The 17-year-old group leads with 38, of whom 26 are seniors, while there are 27 in the 16-year bracket, eight at 15, and two at 14.

Indians Drop 5th Game in Row To Seattle Raniers

By The Associated Press

RIVERSIDE, Cal., March 18—The Cleveland Indians aren't the spring wonders of other years and that may be a good omen.

In the past the Tribesmen used to beat the brains out of the opposition during spring training and in the early portion of the regular campaign, then fold up like a worn-out wallet.

The Indians went down to their fifth straight exhibition defeat at Bakersfield yesterday when Seattle's Raniers of the Pacific Coast League slipped in with a 2 to 1 triumph.

The margin of victory was a two-run homer by third baseman Bob Layne. The Redskins' lone tally resulted from a walk with the bases filled in the third inning.

Each side made only six hits but four of Cleveland's were collected by Felix Mackiewicz. Al Gettel was on the hill when Layne drove his homer and the defeat was charged to him.

MARKET RESISTS RECOVERY EFFORT

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 18—Attempts to get the stock market back on the recovery route again met with a little success here and there today but many leaders continued to falter.

Dealings were sluggish from the start. Many pivotals were a bit late in opening and others showed no price variation.

Fractional advances predominated near midday.

Resistant were General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Electric Power & Light, Westinghouse, Standard Oil (NJ), Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Pennsylvania Railroad and Chesapeake & Ohio. Laggards included American Telephone, Air Reduction, General Electric, International Nickel and U. S. Gypsum.

Says Happy Teachers Needed in U. S. Schools

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 18—America's modern education program calls for "happier teachers," instead of "petty tyrants" in the country's schoolrooms, says Dr. Goodwin G. Watson, Columbia university professor of education.

In a lecture sponsored yesterday by the AFL-Cleveland Teachers union and the Ohio Mental Hygiene association, Dr. Watson declared many current teachers "mask their hostility under a forced and repulsive sweetness," while others "drive themselves to appear energetic and brisk."

The educator said "higher salary schedules, dependable tenure and genuinely democratic school administrations" will do much to improve teacher personalities.

The war losses of Swedish merchant shipping were about 600,000 tons.

OH...IT ISN'T THAT, WINDY...I'LL BE ALL RIGHT... WILL YOU EXCUSE ME FOR A MOMENT?
RELAX, HE SAYS! HOW CAN I? OH, RIP! WHERE ARE YOU? PLEASE COME...BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE!

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

"AND why?" Dicky asked airily, arising from his seat by Mary's couch, "should you think you have a monopoly on telephoning charming rotund elderly physicians?

"'Rotund' is a lovely word, don't you think?" he went on, and I knew that he was determinedly engaged in the task of raising Mary's low spirits from the nadir to which they had descended.

Sounds Much Nicer

"It sounds so much nicer than 'fat' or 'obese,'" he went on. "In fact, that last five-letter word gives me the shivers Its use ought not to be permitted, even in a cross word puzzle."

Mary giggled, and her uncle preened himself visibly. But I cruelly cut him short.

"Dicky!" I said peremptorily. "Will you rein in your persiflage long enough to answer a question? Do you mean that you already have telephoned Dr. Twitchell?"

"If you had the perceptions of a five-letter word which rhymes with 'mouse,'" my husband said, knowing that I have a phobia on the use of the word to which he was referring and sadistically grinning over his knowledge, "you would realize that I mean exactly that. And I will relieve your mind further by imparting the information—that is collitch for 'telling you'—that Dr. Twitchell is starting immediately for the hotel."

Waggled a Forefinger

"Then," I began, but he waggled a commanding forefinger at me.

"Woman!" he ordered sternly. "Listen to my further information! I have collected all your little pencils and put them in their tray, put your manuscript in the drawer of your desk, and have your study in perfect order for your departure. Also, Mary's hat and other belongings are on that chair, ready for her donning. That's a nice word, 'donning.' I like it. But to sum up. In words of one syllable, we are all set to go, now, at once."

"Oh, no, we're not" Mary said with decision. She had been giggling at intervals over Dicky's nonsense, but now her voice held a note of steel.

Looked at Her Sharply

Her uncle looked at her sharply.

"What's the idea, Brat?" he asked. "What monkey wrench are you throwing into the machinery now?"

"Just this," she said with determination, "I'm not going to stir a step out of here unless the manuscript of Auntie Madge's play goes along."

"But, Brat, you're too sick—" her uncle begun, but I interrupted him ruthlessly.

"Of course the manuscript is going along with us," I said. "I don't think I'm going to have a very strenuous nursing job. I can combine it with playwriting, I'm sure."

I walked to my desk and took from the drawer in which Dicky had put it away, the manuscript of the first two acts of my play, also some blank typewriter paper and "onion skins" of the same size.

Will Send a Boy

"I'll send a boy up for my typewriter later," I said. "And now, let's lock up here, and start down to our living apartment. I want to get you into bed, Mary, before Dr. Twitchell gets here."

Dicky helped her into her outdoor things, and when she was ready, I swung her around facing me.

"I must put you straight on one thing before we go down," I told her. "I'm taking the manuscript down with me, but you're not going to look at it tonight unless Dr. Twitchell says so."

"Then I'm going to vamp the old darling with all my skill!" she declared stubbornly. "If I don't get my teeth into those lines pretty soon, and see what I can do with them, I think I'll go mad."
